Say Washkansky Condition Still 'Very Serious'

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Louis Washkansky, the heart transplant patient, was in "very serious condition" today but doctors said they had not given up hope he will recover.

Dr. M.C. Botha reported a "very dramatic decrease" in Washkansky's white blood count in the past few hours. This aroused fears that his body is acting against its own tissue—the lungs and white blood cells—more than against the heart grafted into him Dec. 3.

Doctors planned a transfusion of normal white blood cells to combat this. The transfusion decision was taken on the recom- mendation of a French blood cancer specialist. This treat- ment has on occasion had "quite remarkable results," Botha said.

Four donors gave blood for this purpose this morning and the treatment will probably be repeated in the afternoon, Botha said.

Earlier, it had been assumed that signs of a lung infection discovered Saturday indicated pneumonia.

The doctors had strained faces, but said there was still reason for optimism that the 53-year-old Washkansky would survive.

Botha, one of the key figures in the heart operation, said a U.S. transplant surgeon, Dr. T.E. Starzl, had encountered similar rejection circumstances in kidney transplants.

Starzl, of the Veterans Ad- ministration Hospital at Denver, Colo., had found that most kid- ney transplant patients whose own tissue had been attacked by the body in much the same way had survived after being ill for about two weeks, he said.

Starting late Saturday, Wash- kansky was treated for pneumo- nia. When he did not respond to penicillin, doctors began to wonder whether the lung complica- tions might indicate his body is trying to reject the transplanted heart. The heart was taken from Denise Ann Darvall, 25, after she was killed in an auto accident, and substituted for Washkansky's diseased heart Dec. 3.

Washkansky's appetite has been poor since the lung con- dition has developed.

If Washkansky's natural body defenses against foreign objects reject the heart, there is little doctors can do to save him.

He had been showing good progress since the surgery until the lung complications. Doctors had planned to remove the stitches from his chest incision and allow him to walk this week.

LBJ, Other Leaders Fly To Holt Rites

John Gorton Seen Likely Successor As Aussie Chief

By GORDON TAIT Associated Press Writer

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia's minister of educa- tion and science, Sen. John Grey Gorton, emerged today as a likely compromise successor to Prime Minister Harold Holt.

REPLACES HOLT — Deputy Prime Minister John McEwen (above) has been named tem- porary prime minister of Australia, replacing Harold Holt, who vanished while swimming off the summer re- sort of Portsea. McEwen will serve until the ruling Liberal Party elects a new leader.

Holt, who disappeared while swimming in the surf off the southeast coast Sunday, is to be memorialized at a service in Melbourne Friday attended by President Johnson. The Presi- dent's decision to make the 10,173-mile flight was an un- usual gesture of respect for his staunch ally in the Vietnam war.

Three other Vietnam war al- lies—President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam, Presi- dent Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines and President Chung Hee Park of South Korea —announced they would attend the Melbourne service also. There was speculation they would hold an informal summit conference with Johnson and Australian leaders on the prose- cution of the war.

Informed sources in London said British Prime Minister Harold Wilson might also fly to Australia.

Deputy Prime Minister John McEwen, leader of the Country party, was sworn in today as in- termim prime minister to serve until Holt's Liberal party, the larger member of the Liberal- Country coalition, elects a new party leader and prime minister at a meeting Jan. 9.

Solons Work On Buckeye Remap Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A joint legislative committee be- gins work today aimed at find- ing a solution to Ohio's prob- lem of congressional district boundaries.

The Senate Committee on Elections, Commerce and Labor and the House Committee on Government Operations al- ready have one plan to con- sider — a proposal presented Monday by Gov. James A. Rhodes. The governor said the proposal would satisfy all the "requirements of law."

Early this month, the U. S. Supreme Court invalidated the state's present 24-district sys- tem, ruling that individual dis- tricts varied too much from the average population of 404,433.

Under the plan presented by Rhodes, the largest district would be the 24th, with a popu- lation of 406,093, and the small- est 403,045.

Rhodes said new districting would have to be based on the 1960 census and that a devia- tion from a perfect ratio could be no more than one-half of one per cent.

Such a ratio on his proposal was less than one-half of one per cent, he said.

Final action will be up to the legislature, which returns Jan. 15. Recommendations of the joint committee will be pre- sented.

Populations in districts now range from 457,774 in the 14th District, covering most of Sum- mit County, to 319,968 in the 12th District formed by the eastern half of Franklin County and part of Columbus.

U.N. Hopes To End Meet By Tonight

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General As- sembly pressed on toward ad- journment today after agreeing to meet again in the spring if a treaty to check the spread of nu- clear weapons is ready.

The 123-nation assembly hoped to finish its business to- night. It was expected to push through a proposal by the Unit- ed States, the Soviet Union and 13 other nations calling on the 17-nation Geneva Disarmament Committee to complete the nu- clear nonproliferation treaty by March 15. The assembly then would reconvene as soon as pos- sible to take final action on the draft.

The nonproliferation treaty has been under discussion in Geneva since 1959. The United States and Russia have agreed on all articles but the one deal- ing with inspection procedures.

Secretary-General U. Thant stressed the dangers of spread- ing war in a holiday message to members of his staff. He said that in the past year "I have seen more crises and greater in- ternational tension than I can recall at any time during the 11 years I have spent with the United Nations."

Eubanks To Appeal Slaying Conviction

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lester E. Eubanks, scheduled for execution in Ohio Peniten- tiary Jan. 10, filed notice of ap- peal today in the Ohio Supreme Court from his conviction in the rape slaying of 14-year-old Mary Ellen Deener Nov. 14, 1965, in Mansfield.

Attorneys said the appeal would stay his execution date. The death date was set by the Fifth District Appellate Court which affirmed Eubanks' first- degree murder conviction by a trial court.

Romney Talks With Kosygin

MOSCOW (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan went to the Kremlin today and met with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Romney was accompanied by the U.S. Embassy first sec- retary, Alexander Akalovsky, who translated at one of the Glass- boro, N.J., meetings between Kosygin and President Johnson.

The meeting with Kosygin was the only one with a Soviet official granted the Republican presidential candidate during his two-day stay in Moscow.

Since his arrival Monday, Romney has shied away from comment on U.S.-Soviet issues. His aides indicated that the gov- ernor would say little or nothing afterward about his talk with the Soviet premier.

Romney is due to fly out of Moscow Wednesday for Tel Aviv, Israel, to continue his world tour.

Ohio Draft Call Issued

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Selective Service head- quarters today issued a Jan- uary 1968 induction call for a total of 3,335 men to meet a net state call for 2,001 men.

The gross call is for men to take physical examinations in order to fill the net quota for the state. The net call for Jan- uary compares to a net call of 1,024 for December this year, and 673 in January of this year.

The callup by counties:

Allen 24, Athens 19, Auglaize 1 Clinton 6, Deane 12, Fairfield 25, Fayette 13, Green 15, High- land 10, Hocking 11, Madison 18 Mercer 10, Paulding 13, Perry 9, Pickaway 12 Putnam 12, Ross 13, Van Wert 10, Warren 36.

Indians Seek State, U.S. Aid: New Snow Threatens

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — Navajo reservation officials are appealing for federal and state help as severe weather conditions continued today in Southwestern areas blanketed by six days of snow.

Tribal Chairman Raymond Nakai, in asking President Johnson to declare the 16-mil- lion acre reservation a disaster area, said the situation was the most critical in the modern-day history of the Navajo nation.

Three persons were known dead on the reservation as a re- sult of back-to-back winter storms which in the past week had claimed at least 32 lives in Arizona, Colorado, Texas and New Mexico.

And the end was not in sight. Heavy snow warnings were posted today for mountain areas of California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and southern Idaho.

Six Air Force helicopters at Window Rock for search and rescue operations on the reser- vation were grounded for the most part Monday as a fresh blizzard moved in and added to the snow which already had been whipped into drifts five feet high. Another half-foot of snow and winds of 35 miles per hour were forecast today.

A storm system centered in southwestern Idaho dumped heavy snows on central Mon- tana. Strong, gusty winds

Pressure King To Go Home

New Greek Constitution Set

ROME (AP) — King Constantine and retired Air Vice Marshal Haralambos Potamianos talked late Monday night and again today on the conflicting conditions of the young king and the Greek military junta for his return to the throne.

Potamianos, a close friend of the royal family and aide de camp to Constantine's father, the late King Paul, told news- men he would fly back to Ath- ens later today.

The king was under increas- ing pressure to make up his mind. The new Greek constitu- tion, which will include the sta- tus of the monarchy, is to be submitted to the Athens govern- ment Saturday.

Constantine Kollias, the jun- ta's puppet premier until he supported the king's attempted counter-coup last week, also took part in the talks with Potamianos today.

The junta denied that it sent Potamianos to Rome, but re- liable sources said the 60-year-old officer was briefed by junta leaders and was certain to relay the king's stand to them on his return.

Constantine had said he would return if the military regime held free elections, took no re- pressals against those who sup- ported his coup attempt, gave an assurance that Premier George Papadopoulos would leave the government, and re- stored Constantine's former powers as king.

The junta would like the king back, but only as a figurehead, and so far has shown no dispo- sition to go along with the king's demands. Deputy Premier Styli- anos Patakos said Monday night: "the climate is not prop- er for his return."

Hope Motorists Can Aid Police In Bandit Hunt

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police are hopeful that some motorists may be able to provide an au- tomobile license number that will lead to the arrest of two men who escaped with a $3,000 church collection from a Cleve- land Trust Co. branch bank.

Police said a gunman took the money Monday from a teller in the bank at 8436 Broadway. He then got into a car with an accomplice who ran a red light.

Several automobiles had to stop suddenly as the car sped by and police hope one of the motorists remembers the license number of the getaway car.

The money taken had just been delivered by Brink's, Inc. from the Holy Name Church about a block west of the bank.

Probe of Marcus Dealings Ordered

NEW YORK (AP) — City in- vestigators, working on the di- rect orders of Mayor John V. Lindsay, begin today a pains- taking probe into all matters dealt with by former mayoral aide James L. Marcus, accused with a Cosa Nostra figure in a city contract kickback scheme.

Marcus and five other men, including labor racketeer An- tonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo, were arrested Monday in what one city official described as the most spectacular city scandal since the Seabury investigation of the early 1930's that led to the resignation of Mayor James J. Walker.

According to the federal grand jury indictment, Marcus allegedly pocketed $16,000 of a $40,000 kickback in the award of an $800,000 city reservoir clean- ing contract while striving as commissioner of water supply, gas and electricity.

It was one week ago today that Marcus, a friend and con- fidant of the mayor, abruptly re- signed his $30,000-a-year post. He had been one of the best- liked and fastest rising young men in the Republican mayor's two-year-old administration.

The defendants, each charged with conspiring to violate feder- al antiracketeering laws, face a maximum penalty upon con- viction of five years in federal pris- on and a $10,000 fine.

At their arraignment, federal Judge Constance Baker Motley set bail of $10,000 for Corallo but released the others without bond for a hearing Dec. 28. Marcus, 37, refused to comment to news- men.

The others indicted were Hen- ry Fried, 60, head of S.T. Grand and Co., and a prominent New York horse breeder; Herbert It- kin, 41, a New York City labor lawyer and a law associate, Charles Rappaport, 30; and Daniel McGee, 57, of Greenwich, Conn., president of New York Local 350, Bakery Workers Un- ion.

Halleck Burns Mattress in Jail Cell

Carl Edward Halleck, await- ing trial in Pickaway County for the slaying of an Ironton Police chief, set fire to the mat- tress in his cell Monday eve- ning Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said today.

The prisoner burned a small hole in the bedding. He was taken to Berger Hospital where he was treated for smoke in- halation and then was returned to the jail.

Sheriff Radcliff said today that Common Pleas Judge Wil- liam Ammer, who will preside at Halleck's trial, and Lawrence County authorities have au- thorized him to detail a special guard to watch Halleck around the clock if necessary.

Halleck's first trial ended in a hung jury in Lawrence Coun- ty. The accused was granted a change of venue and the trial was assigned to Pickaway Coun- ty.

All of the costs of the trial and of housing Halleck in the county jail are paid by Law- rence County.

Last week the prisoner cut his wrists twice. He also set fire to his mattress once before.

Hearings Held On 'Filled' Milk

CLEVELAND (AP)—A hear- ing conducted by the U.S. De- partment of Agriculture here Monday brought forth a pro- posal for federal price controls to protect Ohio milk producers from competition from lower- priced artificial milk products.

The department is exploring opinion on artificial milk prod- ucts and has held hearings in Denver, Dallas, Memphis, Louisville, Ky., and Chicago.

Fighter Hits Supermarket; 9 Are Missing

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — An Air Force jet crashed into a su- permarket where more than 50 persons were shopping and burst into flame Monday night.

Firemen recovered four bodies from the market and nearby homes to which the blaze spread. They said nine more were missing in the ashes and debris. Twelve persons were in- jured.

The plane's two crewmen par- achuted to safety moments be- fore the crash.

The flames destroyed the su- permarket and heavily dam- aged two adjoining businesses and three homes near the shop- ping area at 29th and Alvernon streets.

The pilot was identified as Flight Lt. Jack R. Hamilton of Perth, Ontario, of the Royal Canadian Air Force. The navigator was Capt. Gary L. Hughes of Mt. Shasta, Calif., a U.S. Air Force officer. They jumped from the plane seconds after takeoff from Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, about two miles away.

The Air Force gave no reason as to why the men had to bail out.

Witnesses said the F4D jet flew on a direct course into the back of the store. Roswell Burk, 15, one of those near the scene, said it looked like one of the wings hit the corner of the building first.

Tornadoes Erupt Again In Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Deadly tornadoes are continuing to erupt over Alabama, and the Weather Bureau said one funnel sliced across a section of the Municipal Airport here shortly after 5 a.m. today.

Three aircraft hangars and two aircraft were damaged, the Weather Bureau said. There were no injuries.

Additional damage was re- ported in the western section of the city, the Weather Bureau added. It said at least one trailer home was overturned by the violent winds and a number of trees was uprooted.

The Weather Bureau said the tornado which hit the airport was one of two reported in the area. The second apparently did not touch ground, it said.

Today's storms came less than 24 hours after Alabama Gov. Lurleen Wallace ordered state Civil Defense authorities to obtain information necessary to seek federal disaster aid for other tornado and rain damaged areas of the state.

Mrs. Wallace issued the order after a killer tornado, spawned by unseasonably warm weather, struck the Huntsville, Ala., area shortly before dawn Monday, killing two persons and injuring about 30 others.

Cincinnati Bank Robbed by Pair

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two band- its robbed the O'Bryonville branch of the Provident Bank in the Walnut Hills section of about $3,000 today, police re- ported.

The robbers, both Negroes, entered the bank a few min- utes after it opened for busi- ness at 9 a. m. One bandit, who wore a woman's black wig and a stocking over his face, told three tellers at gun point to hand him the money from their cages.

The other man acted as a lookout. Police said he wore a baker's white cap and a long white coat over his clothes.

The men fled on foot.

Gallipolis Toll 19; Start Dragging River

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP) — A flotilla of small craft begins a 14-mile dragging operation on the Ohio River today in an attempt to find the bodies of those missing in the suspension bridge collapse.

Searchers have recovered 19 bodies since the Friday disaster. Civil Defense officials esti- mate there are still 42 missing.

Army officers in charge of the recovery estimate the dragging operation will take several days. They said small craft will drag "every inch" of the river bottom from the mangled wreckage of the collapsed Silver Bridge to the Gallipolis dam 14 miles downstream.

Meanwhile, federal and state officials from Ohio and West Virginia continue to probe the cause of the disaster. President Johnson sent a telegram Monday night to Gov. Hulett C. Smith of West Virginia, prom- ising federal aid to restore trans- portation across the river and for plans to build a new bridge.

"Every possible help will be rendered," said Johnson. "The nation has been saddened by the Silver Bridge tragedy . . ."

The West Virginia Road Com- mission has engaged a consult- ing engineering firm—Modjeski and Masters of Harrisburg, Pa. —to provide what Road Com- missioner Burl A. Sawyers called "an independent analy- sis" of possible causes of the collapse.

Harry Stephens, the road commission's chief bridge de- sign engineer, said his investi- gators already have ruled out one possible cause—failure of the anchorage at each end of the suspension span.

"The anchorage has not moved and we can rule that out together," he said.

Ohio Highway Director P. E. Masheter has ordered inspec- tions of three other Ohio River bridges. West Virginia's Road Commission has closed the Ohio River bridge at St. Mary's, 80 miles north of here, because it is of the same type as the fallen bridge and was built about the same time. Several other bridges on the Ohio and Kana- wha Rivers are being inspected by West Virginia authorities.

Traffic on the Pomeroy, Ohio-Mason, W.Va. bridge is being spaced by state police to eliminate overloading. The Pomeroy bridge is 20 miles north of Point Pleasant and is in heavy use since the disaster.

The New York Central Rail- road started a shuttle car serv- ice over the river this morning on a railroad bridge 300 yards Bridge.

The West Virginia Public Service Commission has ap- proved emergency ferry service and is seeking clearance from the Interstate Commerce Com- mission and the Army Corps of Engineers.

State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson has estimated dam- age claims totaling millions of dollars will be filed against West Virginia. He said it was "extremely doubtful" that the federal government would be in- volved in any liability.

Meanwhile divers are con- tinuing to explore the mangled wreckage. They have re- ceived a shipment of explosives to be used if needed. The divers report hazardous conditions, zero visibility and a strong six- knot current are hampering their efforts.

On the surface, floating cranes with grappling hooks and clamshell scoops are searching for wreckage.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A joint legislative committee begins work today aimed at finding a solution to Ohio's problem of congressional district boundaries.

The Senate Committee on Elections, Commerce and Labor and the House Committee on Government Operations already have one plan to consider — a proposal presented Monday by Gov. James A. Rhodes. The governor said the proposal would satisfy all the "requirements of law."

Early this month, the U.S. Supreme Court invalidated the state's present 24-district system, ruling that individual districts varied too much from the average population of 404,433.

Under the plan presented by Rhodes, the largest district would be the 24th, with a population of 406,093, and the smallest 403,045.

Rhodes said new districting would have to be based on the 1960 census and that a deviation from a perfect ratio could be no more than one-half of one per cent.

Such a ratio on his proposal was less than one-half of one per cent, he said.

Final action will be up to the legislature, which returns Jan. 15. Recommendations of the joint committee will be presented.

Populations in districts now range from 457,774 in the 14th District, covering most of Summit County, to 319,968 in the 12th District formed by the eastern half of Franklin County and part of Columbus.

Indians Seek State, U.S. Aid: New Snow Threatens

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — Navajo reservation officials are appealing for federal and state help as severe weather conditions continued today in Southwestern areas blanketed by six days of snow.

Tribal Chairman Raymond Nakai, in asking President Johnson to declare the 16-million acre reservation a disaster area, said the situation was the most critical in the modern-day history of the Navajo nation.

Three persons were known dead on the reservation as a result of back-to-back winter storms which in the past week had claimed at least 32 lives in Arizona, Colorado, Texas and New Mexico.

And the end was not in sight. Heavy snow warnings were posted today for mountain areas of California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and southern Idaho.

Six Air Force helicopters at Window Rock for search and rescue operations on the reservation were grounded for the most part Monday as a fresh blizzard moved in and added to the snow which already had been whipped into drifts five feet high. Another half-foot of snow and winds of 35 miles per hour were forecast today.

A storm system centered in southwestern Idaho dumped heavy snows on central Montana. Strong, gusty winds heaped the snow into huge drifts, and bitter cold temperatures added to the misery.

The mercury fell to 6 below at Cut Bank, Mont., before dawn. Five small communities in Cascade County, Mont., were isolated in drifts ranging up to 14 feet in depth. Plans were under way at Malstrom Air Force Base near Great Falls to airlift hay to some 10,000 head of cattle stranded or strayed because of the storm.

Bryce Canyon, Utah, was blanketed by 28 inches of snow, and 8 inches fell at Idaho Falls, in southeastern Idaho.

With the heavy snow warnings in effect for most of the Rocky Mountain region, the Weather Bureau advised travelers to check local conditions before proceeding into any of the affected areas.

One man from the St. Michael's area west of Window Rock said he had been trying to dig out of his ranch since last Thursday. When he reached Window Rock Monday night he said snow in the area reached up to the stomachs of cattle.

The latest fatality was a baby less than a week old who died of exposure Monday at Tolani Lake, about 60 miles northeast of Flagstaff, Ariz., tribal police Asst. Supt. Frank Chambers said.

Chambers also said some 80 persons, about half of them children, made their way Monday to a Navajo meeting house at Pinon, about 102 miles northwest of Window Rock. He said they apparently were among a group of Pinon nut pickers who were reported trapped in the wilderness when the snow first hit. Some of them were ill and others had been without food for 10 days, Chambers said.

New Mexico Gov. David C. Carr disclosed Monday night that some federal assistance already was on the way in the form of hay for stranded livestock, heavy equipment, airplanes and food.

Probe of Marcus Dealings Ordered

NEW YORK (AP) — City investigators, working on the direct orders of Mayor John V. Lindsay, begin today a painstaking probe into all matters dealt with by former mayoral aide James L. Marcus, accused with a Cosa Nostra figure in a city contract kickback scheme.

It was one week ago today that Marcus, a friend and confidant of the mayor, abruptly resigned his $30,000-a-year post. He had been one of the best-liked and fastest rising young men in the Republican mayor's two-year-old administration.

Hope Motorists Can Aid Police In Bandit Hunt

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police are hopeful that some motorists may be able to provide an automobile license number that will lead to the arrest of two men who escaped with a $3,000 church collection from a Cleveland Trust Co. branch bank.

Police said a gunman took the money Monday from a teller in the bank at 8436 Broadway. He then got into a car with an accomplice who ran a red light. Several automobiles had to stop suddenly as the car sped by and police hope one of the motorists remembers the license number of the getaway car.

The money taken had just been delivered by Brink's, Inc. from the Holy Name Church about a block west of the bank.

The defendants, each charged with conspiring to violate federal antiracketeering laws, face a maximum penalty upon conviction of five years in federal prison and a $10,000 fine.

At their arraignment, federal Judge Constance Baker Motley set bail of $10,000 for Corallo but released the others without bond for a hearing Dec. 28. Marcus, 37, refused to comment to newsmen.

The others indicted were Henry Fried, 60, head of S.T. Grand and Co., and a prominent New York horse breeder; Herbert Itkin, 41, a New York City labor lawyer and a law associate, Charles Rappaport, 30; and Daniel Mozo, 57, of Greenwich, Conn., president of New York Local 350, Bakery Workers Union.

Halleck Burns Mattress in Jail Cell

Carl Edward Halleck, awaiting trial in Pickaway County for the slaying of an Ironton Police chief, set fire to the mattress in his cell Monday evening Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said today.

The prisoner burned a small hole in the bedding. He was taken to Berger Hospital where he was treated for smoke inhalation and then was returned to the jail.

Sheriff Radcliff said today that Common Pleas Judge William Ammer, who will preside at Halleck's trial, and Lawrence County authorities have authorized him to detail a special guard to watch Halleck around the clock if necessary.

Halleck's first trial ended in a hung jury in Lawrence County. The accused was granted a change of venue and the trial was changed to Pickaway County.

All of the costs of the trial and of housing Halleck in the county jail are paid by Lawrence County.

Last week the prisoner cut his wrists twice. He also set fire to his mattress once before.

Hearings Held On 'Filled' Milk

CLEVELAND (AP) — A hearing conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture here Monday brought forth a proposal for federal price controls to protect Ohio milk producers from competition from lower-priced artificial milk products.

The department is exploring opinion on artificial milk products and has held hearings in Denver, Dallas, Memphis, Louisville, Ky., and Chicago.

Fighter Hits Supermarket; 9 Are Missing

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — An Air Force jet crashed into a supermarket where more than 50 persons were shopping and burst into flame Monday night.

Firemen recovered four bodies from the market and nearby homes to which the blaze spread. They said nine more were missing in the ashes and debris. Twelve persons were injured.

The plane's two crewmen parachuted to safety moments before the crash.

The flames destroyed the supermarket and heavily damaged two adjoining businesses and three homes near the shopping area at 29th and Alvernon streets.

The pilot was identified as Flight Lt. Jack R. Hamilton of Perth, Ontario, of the Royal Canadian Air Force. The navigator was Capt. Gary L. Hughes of Mt. Shasta, Calif., a U.S. Air Force officer. They jumped from the plane seconds after takeoff from Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, about two miles away.

The Air Force gave no reason as to why the men had to bail out.

Witnesses said the F4D jet flew on a direct course into the back of the store. Roswell Burk, 15, one of those near the scene, said it looked like one of the wings hit the corner of the building first.

Tornadoes Erupt Again In Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Deadly tornadoes are continuing to erupt over Alabama, and the Weather Bureau said one funnel sliced across a section of the Municipal Airport here shortly after 5 a.m. today.

Three aircraft hangars and two aircraft were damaged. The Weather Bureau said. There were no injuries.

Additional damage was reported in the western section of the city, the Weather Bureau added. It said at least one trailer home was overturned by the violent winds and a number of trees was uprooted.

The Weather Bureau said the tornado which hit the airport was one of two reported in the area. The second apparently did not touch ground, it said.

Today's storms came less than 24 hours after Alabama Gov. Lurleen Wallace ordered state Civil Defense authorities to obtain information necessary to seek federal disaster aid for other tornado and rain damaged areas of the state.

Mrs. Wallace issued the order after a killer tornado, spawned by unseasonably warm weather, struck the Huntsville, Ala., area shortly before dawn Monday, killing two persons and injuring about 30 others.

Cincinnati Bank Robbed by Pair

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two bandits robbed the O'Bryonville branch of the Provident Bank in the Walnut Hills section of about $3,000 today, police reported.

The robbers, both Negroes, entered the bank a few minutes after it opened for business at 9 a. m. One bandit, who wore a woman's black wig and a stocking over his face, told three tellers at gun point to hand him the money from their cages.

The other man acted as a lookout. Police said he wore a baker's white cap and a long white coat over his clothes.

The men fled on foot.

Gallipolis Toll 19; Start Dragging River

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP) — A flotilla of small craft begins a 14-mile dragging operation on the Ohio River today in an attempt to find the bodies of those missing in the suspension bridge collapse.

Searchers have recovered 19 bodies since the Friday disaster. Civil Defense officials estimate there are still 42 missing.

Army officers in charge of the recovery estimate the dragging operation will take several days. They said small craft will drag "every inch" of the river bottom from the mangled wreckage of the collapsed Silver Bridge to the Gallipolis dam 14 miles downstream.

Meanwhile, federal and state officials from Ohio and West Virginia continue to probe the cause of the disaster. President Johnson sent a telegram Monday night to Gov. Hulett C. Smith of West Virginia, promising federal aid to restore transportation across the river and for plans to build a new bridge.

"Every possible help will be rendered," said Johnson. "The nation has been saddened by the Silver Bridge tragedy..."

The West Virginia Road Commission has engaged a consulting engineering firm—Modjeski and Masters of Harrisburg, Pa.—to provide what Road Commission Burl A. Sawyers called "an independent analysis" of possible causes of the collapse.

Harry Stephens, the road commission's chief bridge design engineer, said his investigators already have ruled out one possible cause—failure of the anchorage at each end of the suspension span.

"The anchorage has not moved and we can rule that out altogether," he said.

Ohio Highway Director P. E. Masheter has ordered inspections of three other Ohio River bridges. West Virginia's Road Commission has closed the Ohio River bridge at St. Mary's, 80 miles north of here, because it is of the same type as the fallen bridge and was built about the same time. Several other bridges on the Ohio and Kanawha Rivers are being inspected by West Virginia authorities.

Traffic on the Pomeroy, Ohio-Mason, W.Va. bridge is being spaced by state police to eliminate overloading. The Pomeroy bridge is 20 miles north of Point Pleasant and is in heavy use since the disaster.

The New York Central Railroad started a shuttle car service over the river this morning on a railroad bridge 300 yards Bridge.

The West Virginia Public Service Commission has approved emergency ferry service and is seeking clearance from the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Army Corps of Engineers.

State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson has estimated damage claims totaling millions of dollars will be filed against West Virginia. He said it was "extremely doubtful" that the federal government would be involved in any liability.

Meanwhile divers are continuing to explore the mangled bridge wreckage. They have received a shipment of explosives to be used if needed. The divers report hazardous conditions, zero visibility and a strong six-knot current are hampering their efforts.

On the surface, floating cranes with grappling hooks and clamshell scoops are searching for wreckage.

Westfall Citizen's Group Recommends Grade School

The seven-member Citizen's Advisory Committee of Westfall School District has recommended the district consolidate grades one through eight in a new building near the high school.

The recommendation came after the group had made a careful study of a survey of the district's physical plants recently completed by Ohio University.

There are presently four elementary schools in the district.

Molten Iron Kills 3 Men At Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Tons of molten pig iron dumped by accident killed three men and injured 30 at the Arco steel mill.

The metal, heated to 2,800 degrees Fahrenheit, spilled 40 feet from a giant ladle Monday into an open hearth area and splattered 120 feet.

Leo Bell, 53, and Houston H. Kreuger, 53, both of Houston, died about seven hours after suffering burns Monday.

A third employee, Norman E. Doss, 49, of Houston, died early today.

Of the 30 workers suffering injuries, 17 remained in hospitals many in critical condition. Attendants said several may be blinded. Others were treated at the plant for minor injuries and one was dismissed after hospital treatment.

Burke Huber, plant assistant safety supervisor, said most of the injuries resulted from clothes set afire by the metal.

Officials reported about 440 persons work at the mill but did not say how many were present at the time of the accident.

Spokesmen unofficially blamed the accident on a bent mechanical arm that held the bowl-shaped ladle in place.

Plant Manager, W.M. Rankin said an overhead electric crane supported the ladle that carried 30 tons of molten iron from special rail cars to the hearth. The crane lifts the ladle to the second-floor level, 40 feet off the ground.

Over 700 Attend Cantata at Church

An audience of over 700 people attended the presentation of John Peterson's cantata, "Night of Miracles," Monday night at the First Church of Christ in Christian Union on E. Ohio St.

The program was presented by the Circleville Bible College choir and orchestra. The 35 voice choir and 20-piece orchestra performed in the program. Mrs. Glenna Brown, faculty member of Circleville Bible College, directed the choir and orchestra.

Two of the four schools — at Jackson and Monroe — also house the seventh and eighth grades. Other schools are located at Williamsport and Derby.

The Westfall Board plans to begin interviewing architects in January. Members of the advisory committee are Raymond Reiterman, chairman; Dr. H. W. Fraas, Mrs. Ruth Renick, Mrs. Anna Mae Conrad, Richard Everman, Carl Schein, Charles Steinhouser, Robert Vincent.

Gordon Massie, principal of Westfall High School, informed the board a site had been selected for a track. The location, adjacent to the football field was approved. The Westfall Booster Club will build the track.

A guideline for personal leaves of teachers was established.

William McMahon, the deputy leader of the Liberals, would succeed Holt. But McEwen made clear to the Liberals that his party would withdraw from the coalition if McMahon was chosen, leaving the government three votes short of a majority.

Gorton, a 6-foot, 56-year-old farmer whose wife was born in the United States, conferred with other Liberal leaders today and told newsmen they had asked him to run for Holt's seat in the House of Representatives so he could take over the government reins. He said he had formally notified McMahon and the party's deputy parliamentary leader of his candidacy.

Gorton holds a master of arts degree from Oxford and was a World War II pilot in Europe and the Pacific. He was badly wounded.

Rough seas and a strong southerly wind hampered the search today for the body of the 59-year-old prime minister, who disappeared off Portsea, a resort 37 miles south of Melbourne. Searchers said the body might never be found because of the strong ocean currents.

Holt's wife remained at the sea with her three stepsons and their wives. The national radio network played music at the start of its programs today, followed by the reading of messages of sympathy to the Australian government and Mrs. Holt.

Purina's President Gets Appointment as Chairman

R. HAL DEAN

R. Hal Dean, 51-year-old president of Ralston Purina Co., was named to the additional post of chairman Monday at the company's headquarters in St. Louis, Mo.

Dean served with Ralston Purina at the Circleville plant from 1942 to 1945. He was well-known here through his extensive participation in community activities and sports.

Dean succeeds another former Circleville resident in the role of chairman, Raymond E. Rowland. Rowland was plant manager here in 1934 and served for six consecutive years. Like Dean, he, too, was active in local business and civic functions.

Rowland reached the compulsory retirement age of 65 on Dec. 8. A 41-year-old Purina veteran he is said to have "done more to make Ralston Purina what it is than any other person." He will continue as a director.

cleville in November of 1945 when he was transferred to the company's headquarters in St. Louis. Moving up the ladder of success, Dean held several top management posts until he became the company's president in 1963.

Dean is a graduate of Grinnell College in Iowa. He joined Ralston Purina in 1938 as a clerk in the grain department. In addition to his management posts, he headed the company's international division in its early stages and has been a director since 1961.

Ag Society Elects New Directors

The Pickaway County Agriculture Society elected eight directors Monday during the annual election held at the Fairgrounds.

New directors are Paul Dean, who replaces James Ford on the board, and Karl Braskett, who replaces Ross Bidwell.

Dean will serve as the city of Circleville's representative, along with Wayne Martin, while Braskett is the representative from Scioto Twp.

Other board members re-elected Monday were Lawrence Wolford, Perry Twp.; Kenneth Shell, Monroe Twp.; Eugene Schleich, Deer Creek Twp.; Donald Streitenberger, Mühlenberg Twp.; L. Robert Liston Jr., Circleville Twp.

THE annual election of officers will be held Jan. 3. At that time, a secretary will also be named.

Present officers are Glenn McCoy, president; Richard Shaw, vice president; Roger Bowers, secretary-treasurer.

During Monday's session of the directors' meeting, Bowers gave the annual financial statement.

Total expenditures for the year were $58,798.51. This included $9,754.52 in fair premiums and other expenses carried over from previous years.

Total receipts for the year were $59,456.35. A complete financial report will appear as a legal advertisement in The Herald in the near future.

Sentence Man To 120 Years

CLEVELAND (AP)—Common Pleas Judge John Manos called Donald A. Hauser a "depraved character" in sentencing him to 41 to 120 years in prison Monday for four armed robberies and wounding of a policeman.

Aircraft Catches 80 Speeders

An aircraft speed detector was used over the weekend to help the State Highway Patrol catch 12 local and 68 out-of-county motorists. The cases were brought before the bench of Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb Monday.

William L. Uhl, 27, Route 1, pleaded guilty to charges of failing to obey a traffic light and to maintain assured clear distance ahead. He was fined $50 and costs on the first and $15 plus costs on the second charge. The court suspended $25 of the fine.

Ferril D. Grubb, 52, Route 3, pleaded guilty to charges of impeding the flow of traffic by traveling at 30 miles in a 60 mile zone. He was fined $10 and costs.

George Schenck, 39, of 431 Glenmont Court, forfeited a $24 bond set on charges of speeding 75 miles in a 60 mile zone.

Hollis Harrison, 28, Lockbourne, forfeited a $24 bond set on charges of speeding 70 miles in a 60 mile zone.

John B. Steele, 31, Route 3, forfeited a $19 bond set on charges of speeding 70 miles in a 60 mile zone.

Benjamin Schwalbaugh, 23, of 439 Ray Ave., forfeited a $24 bond set on charges of speeding 75 miles in a 60 mile zone.

Rodney Hoover, 24, Ashville, was charged with speeding 75 miles in a 60 mile zone. He forfeited a bond of $24.

Martha Weidinger, 47, New Holland, forfeited a $24 bond set on charges of speeding 65 miles in a 50 mile zone.

Shirley Allman, 44, New Holland, forfeited a $23 bond set on charges of speeding 70 miles in a 60 mile zone.

Barbara Ott, 31, of 1165 Lone Pine Road, forfeited a $19 bond set on charges of speeding 70 miles in a 60 mile zone.

Michael Roof, 20, Ashville, forfeited a $24 bond set on charges of speeding 73 miles in a 60 mile zone.

Charles Rhodes, 13, Route 4, forfeited a $19 bond set on charges of speeding 45 miles in a 35 mile zone.

Delman McCoy Jr., 19, of 369 E. Main St., forfeited a $24 bond set on charges of making unnecessary noise with his car.

The court collected $2,048 in fines and bond forfeitures from out-of-county motorists.

Remap Change

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rep. Donald D. Clancy, R-Ohio, says he's been swamped with calls protesting possible loss of four townships from his congressional plan released by Gov. James A. Rhodes' office.

The plan would transfer the townships to the 24th District, represented by Rep. Donald E. Lukens, R-Ohio.

Monsoon Clouds End Viet Strike

SAIGON (AP) — Thick monsoon clouds began to settle over North Vietnam again today, curtailing the brief resurgence of heavy attacks on the North Vietnamese heartland during which U.S. pilots reported damage to four major bridges, more than 30 SAM missile sites and more than 100 railroad cars and locomotives.

The raids cost the United States at least five planes in as many days.

A flurry of strikes went into the Hanoi area late Monday, and some missions again probed deep this morning before the cloud blanket began to close in about noon.

U.S. headquarters reported heavy damage Monday to Hanoi's mile-long Paul Doumer bridge, one of two over which all rail traffic from Red China to the capital must pass. The U.S. Command said a rain of 3,000-pound bombs knocked out three of the bridge's 19 spans.

It was the fifth raid on the Doumer bridge and the second since Thursday.

U.S. headquarters also made delayed announcement of the loss of a Navy F4 Phantom jet in raids last Saturday and said the two crewmen were picked up by a helicopter after parachuting into the Tonkin Gulf. It was the 76th U.S. combat plane the American command has admitted losing over the North.

North Vietnam claimed at least 22 American planes were brought down since the break in the weather last Thursday allowed U.S. Army, Navy and Marine jets to return in force to the Hanoi-Haiphong area. The U.S. Command so far has reported five planes lost, with one flier killed, five others missing and three rescued.

While the air war over the North abated, fresh ground fighting broke out in South Vietnam.

South Vietnamese troops sweeping the Mekong Delta rice paddies about 70 miles south of Saigon ran into a heavy force of hard-core guerrillas Monday and reported killing 105 and capturing at least 32 weapons of all sorts. Three government troops were reported killed and 12 wounded in the series of running fights that raged from early morning until dusk.

South Korean forces sweeping coastal scrubland 240 miles northeast of Saigon reported 74 Viet Cong killed in an operation that has been going on for the past week.

The U.S. Navy reported North Vietnamese shore gunners hit the destroyer Lynde McCormick Monday while it was shelling a road junction near Thanh Hoa. The ship received only superficial damage and no one was wounded the Navy said.

Stock List Irregular
NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market began to soften early this afternoon but still showed an irregular pattern.

A few more stocks declined than advanced, reversing the ratio that held during the morning.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 4 at 314.9 with industrials unchanged, rails off 1.0 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.80 at $79.85.

The gold mining issues continued weak.

Down about 2 points were New York Central, Monogram Industries and International Nickel. Standard Oil of Indiana and Zenith were among 1-point losers.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange pushed ahead on balance.

Inspect Bridges
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Louis B. Nunn, apparently prompted by the span collapse at Point Pleasant, W. Va., has ordered immediate inspection of every bridge in Kentucky.

While the air war over the North abated, fresh ground fighting broke out in South Vietnam.

Westfall Citizen's Group Recommends Grade School

The seven-member Citizen's Advisory Committee of Westfall School District has recommended the district consolidate grades one through eight in a new building near the high school.

The recommendation came after the group had made a careful study of a survey of the district's physical plants recently completed by Ohio University.

There are presently four elementary schools in the district.

Molten Iron Kills 3 Men At Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Tons of molten pig iron dumped by accident killed three men and injured 30 at the Arco steel mill.

The metal, heated to 2,800 degrees Fahrenheit, spilled 40 feet from a giant ladle Monday into an open hearth area and splattered 120 feet.

Leo Bell, 53, and Houston H. Kreuger, 55, both of Houston, died about seven hours after suffering burns Monday.

A third employee, Norman E. Doss, 49, of Houston, died early today.

Of the 30 workers suffering injuries, 17 remained in hospitals many in critical condition. Attendants said several may be blinded. Others were treated at the plant for minor injuries and one was dismissed after hospital treatment.

Burke Huber, plant assistant safety supervisor, said most of the injuries resulted from clothes set afire by the metal.

Officials reported about 440 persons work at the mill but did not say how many were present at the time of the accident.

Spokesmen unofficially blamed the accident on a bent mechanical arm that held the bowl-shaped ladle in place.

Plant Manager, W.M. Rankin said an overhead electric crane supported the ladle that carried 30 tons of molten iron from special rail cars to the hearth. The crane lifts the ladle to the second-floor level, 40 feet off the ground.

Deaths

MRS. ALICE M. SPEAKMAN

Over 700 Attend Cantata at Church
An audience of over 700 people attended the presentation of John Peterson's cantata, "Night of Miracles," Monday night at the First Church of Christ in Christian Union on E. Ohio St.

The program was presented by the Circleville Bible College choir and orchestra. The 30 voice choir and 20-piece orchestra performed in the program.

Mrs. Glenna Brown, faculty member of Circleville Bible College, directed the choir and orchestra.

Two of the four schools — at Jackson and Monroe — also house the seventh and eighth grades. Other schools are located at Williamsport and Derby.

The Westfall Board plans to begin interviewing architects in January. Members of the advisory committee are Raymond Reiterman, chairman; Dr. H. W. Fraas, Mrs. Ruth Renick, Mrs. Anna Mae Conrad, Richard Everman, Carl Schein, Charles Steinhouser, Robert Vincent.

Gordon Massie, principal of Westfall High School, informed the board a site had been selected for a track. The location, adjacent to the football field, was approved. The Westfall Booster Club will build the track.

A guideline for personal leaves of teachers was established.

William McMahon, the deputy leader of the Liberals, would succeed Holt. But McEwen made clear to the Liberals that his party would withdraw from the coalition if McMahon was chosen, leaving the government three votes short of a majority.

Gorton, a 6-foot, 56-year-old farmer whose wife was born in the United States, conferred with other Liberal leaders today and told newsmen they had asked him to run for Holt's seat in the House of Representatives so he could take over the government reins. He said he had formally notified McMahon and the party's deputy parliamentary leader of his candidacy.

Gorton holds a master of arts degree from Oxford and was a World War II pilot in Europe and the Pacific. He was badly wounded.

Rough seas and a strong southerly wind hampered the search today for the body of the 59-year-old prime minister, who disappeared off Portsea, a resort 37 miles south of Melbourne. Searchers said the body might never be found because of the strong ocean currents.

Holt's wife remained at the sea with her three stepsons and their wives. The national radio network played music at the start of its programs today, followed by the reading of messages of sympathy to the Australian government and Mrs. Holt.

Former Roundtowner

Purina's President Gets Appointment as Chairman

R. HAL DEAN

R. Hal Dean, 51-year-old president of Ralston Purina Co., was named to the additional post of chairman Monday at the company's headquarters in St. Louis, Mo.

Dean served with Ralston Purina at the Circleville plant from 1942 to 1945. He was well-known here through his extensive participation in community activities and sports.

Dean succeeds another former Circleville resident in the role of chairman, Raymond E. Rowland. Rowland was plant manager here in 1934 and served for six consecutive years. Like Dean, he, too, was active in local business and civic functions.

Rowland reached the compulsory retirement age of 65 on Dec. 8. A 41-year-old Purina veteran he is said to have "done more to make Ralston Purina what it is than any other person." He will continue as a director.

The new chairman left Circleville in November of 1945 when he was transferred to the company's headquarters in St. Louis. Moving up the ladder of success, Dean held several top management posts until he became the company's president in 1963.

Dean is a graduate of Grinnell College in Iowa. He joined Ralston Purina in 1938 as a clerk in the grain department. In addition to his management posts, he headed the company's international division in its early stages and has been a director since 1961.

The Pickaway County Agriculture Society elected eight directors Monday during the annual election held at the Fairgrounds.

New directors are Paul Dean, who replaces James Ford on the board, and Karl Braskett, who replaces Ross Bidwell.

Dean will serve as the city of Circleville's representative, along with Wayne Martin, while Braskett is the representative from Scioto Twp.

Other board members re-elected Monday were Lawrence Wolford, Perry Twp.; Kenneth Shell, Monroe Twp.; Eugene Schleich, Deercreek Twp.; Donald Streitenberger, Muhlenberg Twp.; L. Robert Liston Jr., Circleville Twp.

THE annual election of officers will be held Jan. 3. At that time, a secretary will also be named.

Present officers are Glenn McCoy, president; Richard Shaw, vice president; Roger Bowers, secretary-treasurer.

During Monday's session of the directors' meeting, Bowers gave the annual financial statement.

Total expenditures for the year were $58,798.31. This included $9,754.52 in fair premiums and other expenses carried over from previous years.

Total receipts for the year were $59,456.35. A complete financial report will appear as a legal advertisement in The Herald in the near future.

The court collected $2,048 in fines and bond forfeitures from out-of-county motorists.

Calls Protest

Remap Change
CINCINNATI (AP) — Rep. Donald D. Clancy, R-Ohio, says he's been swamped with calls protesting possible loss of four townships from his congressional district, under a redistricting plan released by Gov. James A. Rhodes' office.

The plan would transfer the townships to the 24th District, represented by Rep. Donald E. Lukens, R-Ohio.

Monsoon Clouds End Viet Strike

SAIGON (AP) — Thick monsoon clouds began to settle over North Vietnam again today, curtailing the brief resurgence of heavy attacks on the North Vietnamese heartland during which U.S. pilots reported damage to four major bridges, more than 30 SAM missile sites and more than 100 railroad cars and locomotives.

The raids cost the United States at least five planes in as many days.

A flurry of strikes went into the Hanoi area late Monday, and some missions again probed deep this morning before the cloud blanket began to close in about noon.

U.S. headquarters reported heavy damage Monday to Hanoi's mile-long Paul Doumer bridge, one of two over which all rail traffic from Red China to the capital must pass. The U.S. Command said a rain of 3,000-pound bombs knocked out three of the bridge's 19 spans.

It was the fifth raid on the Doumer bridge and the second since Thursday.

U.S. headquarters also made delayed announcement of the loss of a Navy F4 Phantom jet in raids last Saturday and said the two crewmen were picked up by a helicopter after parachuting into the Tonkin Gulf. It was the 766th U.S. combat plane the American command has admitted losing over the North.

North Vietnam claimed at least 22 American planes were brought down since the break in the weather last Thursday allowed U.S. Army, Navy and Marine jets to return in force to the Hanoi-Haiphong area. The U.S. Command so far has reported five planes lost, with one flir killed, five others missing and three rescued.

While the air war over the North abated, fresh ground fighting broke out in South Vietnam.

South Vietnamese troops sweeping the Mekong Delta rice paddies about 70 miles southwest of Saigon ran into a heavy force of hard-core guerrillas Monday and reported killing

Christmas Decorating Begun at LE

By RICHARD CREE

Last Saturday, a few dedicated souls showed up at Logan Elm High School to decorate it for the Christmas season.

Though few in number, their creativity was boundless. With a great amount of hard work, these dedicated persons decked the halls of L.E. High School.

The decorating committee chairmen were Max Schooley, Steve Alkire, Sharon Noble, Peggy Wilson and Lolita Faulks.

The Cafeteria has a Christmas tree, a Bethlehem scene on the bulletin board and wreaths on the walls, and doors are appropriately decorated at the entrance.

MEET THE BRAVES — Mike McFadden (left) and Dale Jenne (right) are two seniors who plan to aid the Braves on their way to victory this year. Mike, a 6'2" guard, resides at Route 1, Laurelville. Dale is a 6' forward; he lives at Chippawa Drive in Logan Elm Village.

Debbie Young Takes State Contest Prize

By BRENDA MILLS

For the second consecutive year a Logan Elm junior has received first place in the state Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool Contest. This year Debbie Young, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young, walked off with top honors.

Her outfit, which must be constructed of 100 per cent wool and made by the person modeling, was a kilt and jacket of a red, white and blue plaid with a matching hat.

Debbie was eligible for the state contest by winning the district contest. As one of prizes she will travel to Dallas, Tex. on Jan. 29 for the national finals.

Debbie is a member of the Logan Elm Sunny Sewers and her advisor, Mrs. Robert Mills, as well as all of the students at Logan Elm are proud of her and wish her the best of luck.

Washkansky Suddenly Worse

CAPT TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The condition of heart transplant patient Louis Washkansky, 53, deteriorated Monday and there were fears his body might be rejecting the heart grafted into his body 15 days ago.

Dr. Christian N. Barnard, leader of the transplant surgical team, said he's "disturbed" at Washkansky's condition.

Rhodes Appoints Eastman Judge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes Monday appointed Herbert A. Eastman of Sandusky as judge of the Erie County Court.

Also named were Edward R. Kimmel, Yellow Springs, judge of Fairborn Municipal Court, and Harry E. Smith, Toledo, to the Youth Service Advisory Board.

MISS RANKIN TO LEAD ANTI-WAR MARCH ON CONGRESS—Jeannette Rankin, 87, the first woman to sit in Congress (left) in 1917, announces in New York (right) that she plans to lead an all-woman anti-war march on Congress Jan. 15. She voted against World Wars I and II. In the center photo she was opposing fortification of Guam in 1939.

Dear Abby: Ex-Hubby Should See His Children

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I was married for over 30 years and for reasons I do not care to disclose we were divorced four years ago. From this marriage I have seven wonderful children who are now grown and married.

Three months ago I married again. Here is my problem. On Christmas eve all my children come home and we exchange gifts. Their father comes also. Now that I have remarried, the children are worried about whether their father will be here for Christmas. I have talked it over with my husband and he has no objections to my ex-husband's being present. I believe he is sincere as he is very understanding.

Do you think it would be right to invite my ex-husband?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Why not, if the children want him, and he wants to come, and your husband has no objections, invite him.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the 15-year-old girl who threatened to get herself pregnant so her parents would "have to" let her marry the boy she loved. (He was 16.)

I hope your parents knock some sense into your head before you do such a foolish thing. I married at 15. The boy I couldn't live without was 16. We had four children by the time I was 19. He quit school to marry me, and the jobs he can get without an education do not bring in very much so now I am knocking myself out trying to get my education. My family is suffering from my neglect, but I MUST get an education.

There is a time in life for everything, and 15 is no time for marriage, no matter how "mature" a girl thinks she is. She is only a baby, and can't possibly know what characteristics she will value in a man when she grows up. And 9 chances out of 10, the man she marries will not possess them. I wish my parents had been less "understanding" and more demanding when I was 15.

LIVING AND LEARNING

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for printing my letter. I learned a good lesson from your answer and will never get myself into a mess like that again. I have only one complaint: Why in your headline, did you say, "WIFE BETRAYS HUSBAND'S TRUST"? It should have read, "WIFE BETRAYED BY HUSBAND'S BOSS." Some of your headlines are very clever, but this one was misleading.

NO LONGER UPSET

DEAR NO LONGER: Sorry, but I claim no credit—or blame—for the headlines on my column. This is the province of your local newspaper editor.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M.J.: I inquired at my local postoffice and was told that there is no official ruling against using popcorn (popped) for "filler" in packages sent to our servicemen overseas, but they advised AGAINST it.

Their reason was not the one you stated—that popcorn picks up "deadly fumes" from planes and ships. Their reason: Popcorn attracts bugs and rats. Far as they can determine, marshmallows for "filler" are all right.

Body of Man Thought Sailor

CLEVELAND (AP) — The body of an unidentified man was removed from the Cuyahoga River near the river's mouth late Monday by the U.S. Coast Guard. Police said it may be that of a crewman of the freighter Ben Morrell who has been missing for more than two weeks.

The crewman, Juan Ramon Campos, 42, Ashtabula, has been missing since he fell off a gantry early the morning of Dec. 2 while the freighter was docked on the Cuyahoga Rivers.

Burglars Take Furs in Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police are seeking burglars who stole furs valued at $20,000 from the J.C. Penney Co. store in the Chapel Hill shopping center here.

The burglars stole 35 fur pieces from a display window after breaking the window with a concrete block Sunday night, police said.

Christmas Decorating Begun at LE

By RICHARD CREE

Last Saturday, a few dedicated souls showed up at Logan Elm High School to decorate it for the Christmas season.

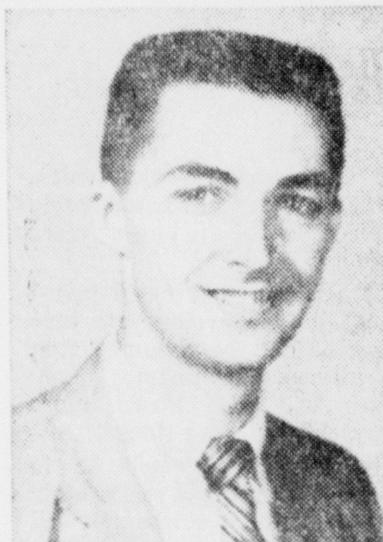

Though few in number, their creativity was boundless. With a great amount of hard work, these dedicated persons decked the halls of L.E. High School.

The decorating committee chairmen were Max Schooley, Steve Alkire, Sharon Noble, Peggy Wilson and Lolita Faulks.

The Cafeteria has a Christmas tree, a Bethlehem scene on the bulletin board and wreaths on the walls, and doors are appropriately decorated at the entrance.

High point of the decorations is a Snoopy Christmas greeting drawn by Brenda Mills.

LE Teacher Of the Week

VICTOR PONTIUS

Teacher of the week at Logan Elm is Mr. Victor Pontius.

Mr. Pontius, a graduate of Pickaway Twp. High School, teaches biology and English.

He is the Reserve basketball coach and baseball coach.

Mr. Pontius received his Bachelor of Science degree and his Master degree from Ohio State University. He did some of his graduate work at the University of South Dakota.

His hobbies include most sports and nature study. Mr. Pontius has been teaching at L.E. for 8 years.

Debbie Young Takes State Contest Prize

By BRENDA MILLS

For the second consecutive year a Logan Elm junior has received first place in the state Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool Contest. This year Debbie Young, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young, walked off with top honors.

Her outfit, which must be constructed of 100 per cent wool and made by the person modeling, was a kilt and jacket of a red, white and blue plaid with a matching hat.

Debbie was eligible for the state contest by winning the district contest. As one of prizes she will travel to Dallas, Tex. on Jan. 29 for the national finals.

Debbie is a member of the Logan Elm Sunny Sewers and her advisor, Mrs. Robert Mills, as well as all of the students at Logan Elm are proud of her and wish her the best of luck.

T. K. BRUNNER & SON

119 W. Main—Est. 1854

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
Representative L. Mendel Rivers, the South Carolina Democrat who is Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, is so disgusted with Le Grand Charles de Gaulle that he wants to dig up the thousands of American dead in France and bring them back to the U.S. for reburial.

With all respect to Congressmen Rivers, this seems a little extreme. After all, France will outlast de Gaulle, and the nation that sent the Marquis de Lafayette to the New World and provided the fleet that helped General Washington bottle up Cornwallis' troops at Yorktown will some day be in our good graces again. Anyway, what does de Gaulle care about a few U.S. corpses? If we really want to hurt de Gaulle where he lives (which is in a world of bitter hatred for the "Anglo-Saxons"), Senator Vance Hartke of Indiana is offering a better idea. The Senator's new bill, which would forbid shipping gold to France for dollars until she has repaid the $6.7 billion owed to us on her World War I debt, would corner de Gaulle right in his vindictive and avaricious little soul.

The question has been raised that Hartke's proposition might embarrass other and friendlier nations which are still in arrears on their World War I debts. All in all, seven countries still owe us money dating back to the first crusade to make the world safe for democracy. Britain's World War I debt of $9.6 billion is larger than the French debt. But a few judicious winks in the direction of Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson should be enough to reassure England. After all, we do not intend to throw an economic blockade around the British Isles in order to collect the debt. Harold Wilson would merely have to refrain from presenting dollars to Washington for gold, which is something he is in a poor position to do anyway.

President Lyndon Johnson has turned his other cheek to de Gaulle on so many occasions that he must feel as though he had been sitting at the net watching the ball go back and forth in an interminable tennis game. There are numerous things that the U.S. might do to embarrass France. Item One: we could suggest cutting down on aid to African nations which are dependent on French support. (Not that we want to be mean to them, but Paris, don't you know, has been taking all our money by raiding our gold supply.) Item Two: We could start a movement of Tourists to By-Pass France, and a submovement to Boycott Champagne. Item Three: We could hint, delicately, that the West Germans might be provided with access to atomic weapons that would be under their own control.

Item Four: We could advocate throwing the French out of NATO on the ground that de Gaulle is more interested in building Soviet and Arab strength to undermine western Europe than he is in helping Belgium, West Germany, Italy, Greece, and other countries to counter the sleeping threat from the East. Item Five: We could bring pressure to bear on the South Vietnamese to make things difficult for French banks and commercial firms that have been funneling to Paris the dollars that we spend in Saigon. Item Six: We could withdraw ambassadorial representation to France. Item Seven: We could let Israel have war planes to the exact number that de Gaulle refuses to let go to the Israelis under contracts that were supposedly cleared up by Paris acceptance of down payments.

Meanwhile, the White House might keep reminding our friends and allies that de Gaulle actually talks like a Goebbels about most of the human race outside France. He has insulted the Jewish people, both in Israel and in the outer world. He has been quoted in a best-selling book, "La Tragedie du General," as saying that "The English are a nation of flunkies, the Germans a nation of pigs, and Italy does not exist." Of England, he has said "I want her in the nude." He has even insulted his own countrymen, as in his statement that "I have tried to lift France out of the mud but she will return to her errors and vomitings. I cannot prevent the French from being French."

We cannot prevent de Gaulle from being de Gaulle. But if he wants to isolate himself in the world, we can hustle the process along. Senator Hartke is making a commendable beginning.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Flanders and Donald Swann are two of our British cousins with a slick comedy style of their very own and a droll, clever way with words and music. But they may not be every American television viewer's cup of tea.

The team was presented by CBS Monday night in an hour consisting of bits and pieces from their routine called "Another Drop of a Hat." Rather than a show, it was a comedy concert.

With Swann, who goes in for broad comedy, at the piano, and the bearded Flanders gliding about easily in a wheel chair, they moved from song to monologue—by Flanders—and from subject to subject. We heard about the curious ways of ostriches and the hippopotamus, the strange names of British railroad stations. Flanders, in a funny hat, had a long, dramatic story, couched in bullfighting terms, about the ritual of stuffing olives.

Although they are described as satirists, they failed to aim at the usual targets—the political establishments, youth or contemporary mores. They did complain mildly about the problem of communicating with modern scientists—"we don't know science and they don't know anything else."

Two of their most amusing pieces were Flanders' report on the frustrations of plane travel and a duet about the difficulty of finding parking space.

Some of the points were missed, sometimes because the sound track was not too good and other times because of their accents.

Although the team had considerable success with their revue on Broadway, their television hour did not prove to be especially stimulating. This was largely because it was taped on a theater stage with an audience out front. This technique rarely translates successfully into the kind of intimacy required.

On NBC, "The Danny Thomas Hour" came up with a cartoon show which was a highly souped-up version of Dickens' "Cricket on the Hearth."

Danny provided the voice of the old toymaker and his daughter, the toymaker's daughter, Roddy McDowall provided the Cockney voice of the cricket, the jaunty, high-hatted hero of the tale, who adopted the family and helped it through its troubles, which included some

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE BASIC REASON for the trouble aboard the Sinclair Lewis-Dorothy Thompson marital bark was that both principals were too famous—and too determined not to be outshone by each other.

There was one evening when they were entertaining a host of celebrities in their home. Miss Thompson was surrounded by admiring sycophants. The host stood ignored and fuming in a corner of the drawing room. Suddenly he came over to one whiskered guest, poked a finger in his midriff, and demanded angrily, "Remember me? I'm the man who wrote 'Main Street' and 'Arrowsmith'!"

An applicant for a job with a Fifth Avenue department store gave his age as 47. To the question, "How long did you hold your last job?" he answered, "53 years." "How is it possible," scoffed the interviewer, "to work 53 years in 47?" The applicant explained, "Overtime."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

After complaining for many years about weakness and nervousness, it was finally found that I had low blood sugar.

Is there any special kind of diet for this condition so that I will not have the feeling that I am about to faint during the day? What causes it to begin with?

Mr. C.O.A., Alabama
Dear Mr. A.: The condition you described is known medically as hypoglycemia, which means an abnormally low level of sugar in the blood.

There are a number of causes of this condition which, with special testing, can be pinpointed. An overproduction of insulin from the pancreas, liver disease, hormone imbalance and the major reasons for hypoglycemia. Fortunately, these serious reasons are not nearly as frequent as the others, which are more readily controlled.

If a patient goes for a long period of time without food, he may develop a lowering of the blood sugar, followed by symptoms of rapid pulse, weakness, nervousness, headache and dizziness. These symptoms can occur with many other conditions and, therefore, should not, as I frequently warn, be used for self-diagnosis of low blood sugar.

The immediate treatment for this kind of a sudden episode of weakness is to take a glass of orange juice, sugar, candy or honey. People who are suspected of having hypoglycemia should not allow many hours to go by without some kind of in-between-meal snack.

When the problem is more complicated and when the exact cause is found this must, of course, be treated intensively. The diet for the relief of the symptoms of low blood sugar should include a high fat, high protein and low carbohydrate diet. Perhaps the most important aspect of the diet is that it should be distributed in at least seven or eight feedings during the 24-hour period. A slight snack immediately after waking and one just before going to bed should keep the blood sugar sufficiently elevated.

It is wise for people who are known to have attacks of hypo-

glycemia to keep a chocolate bar or candy on their persons, so that when the first feelings of weakness occur they can ward it off. Another suggestion might be to carry on one's person a letter instructing a "first-aid" what to do in case of a fainting spell.

The American Medical Association makes a readily identifiable medalion which can be worn around the wrist, neck or ankles. On it is engraved this or any other condition which may need emergency handling. Patients with diabetes are taught how to time the relationship between eating and their insulin injection since insulin produces a fall of blood sugar. When this kind of hypoglycemia is covered by food, the symptoms I described can be avoided. Hypoglycemia can be controlled by rigid adherence to all of the suggestions of the doctor.

Do not wait for a child to outgrow "cross eyes." Valuable time is wasted by waiting unless specifically directed by a physician.

The World Today

By EDMOND LeBRETON (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Social Security benefit and tax scales—both up—and fuel to an argument about the retirement system that has been hot for some time and gets hotter as the average population gets younger.

Critics of the system say it is loaded against the young worker, that the wage earner starting out now or still in his early productive years is being taxed unfairly to pay benefits to those already retired or well on their way to retirement, who paid in much less.

Defenders say everyone, statistically speaking, stands to get a lot more out of Social Security than he puts in.

The mathematics involved are complex and the social and economic arguments finely drawn. Skipping the philosophical dispute, here is an effort to simplify the mathematics, rounding all figures:

Suppose a young man starts work Jan. 1, 1968, and continues until Jan. 1, 2013, at which time he is 65 and retires. Suppose further he starts out at $4,000 a year and gets annual raises of $1,000 until he passes the $7,800-a-year mark—the limit on which the payroll tax is levied.

Under the new rates, he would pay in a little less than $20,000 during his working life.

Of this total, however, almost $3,000 would have gone into medicare, giving him and his wife hospitalization rights in old age. Whether he ever actually recovered the equivalent of these contributions would, of course, depend on his and his wife's health.

Of the remaining $17,000 it is generally agreed that something must be charged off for the insurance value of Social Security during a man's working life.

If he had died leaving minor children, there would have been payments for them. If he had become disabled, he would have received payments.

Social Security values this insurance at 28 per cent of the contribution. Others put the figure as low as 20 per cent. Taking 25 per cent as a working figure reduces the $17,000 to $12,750 for retirement.

At the new benefit rates, the retired worker and his wife of the same age would receive $323 a month in 2013. So a couple would recoup the principal amount of the contribution in almost exactly three and a half years, or by the time they were

68½. An unmarried retired worker would take half again as long to do this.

Social Security actuaries say the life expectancy of a man who has reached 65 is 13½ years and that he can expect his wife to outlive him by five years.

These calculations don't take into account interest that might have been earned or capital gains that might have been realized by the worker if he had been able to keep and invest his Social Security contributions. But they also don't take into account the virtual certainty that Congress, which has made numerous changes in Social Security in the past 30 years, will make more during the next 45.

These probably will be in the direction of greater benefits, tending to give a mathematical break to the retired and the older active workers.

The calculations moreover don't take into account the employer's contributions, which are equal to those of the employee. These contributions provide the cushion enabling the system to broaden and, generally speaking, to pay the individual contributor more than he has put in.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The entrance of insurance companies into the mutual fund sales industry is partial admission that one of the keystones of life insurance—a guaranteed, fixed return—may be surrendering to inflation.

The decisions by which John Hancock and New England Mutual have moved into mutual funds were really made by their customers, potential and actual. The companies have had to accept the dictate of the buyer.

In the past two decades Americans have shown a growing interest in equity investments, in shares of stock that grow or shrink rather than remain fixed in the manner of life insurance payouts.

These people have been liberally rewarded, for stock prices have doubled on average in the past 10 years of economic expansion and millions of people have made their fortunes, large and small. The word has spread.

Since 1952 the shareowner population of America has grown from about 6.5 million to 23 million, expanding at the rate of nine per cent a year or nine times the gain in adult population during that time.

In the same period the insurance companies have seen their relative share of the dollar decline steadily, although the industry has continued to grow and remain profitable. It simply hasn't grown as fast as the fund industry.

Mutual funds, which invest in scores of stocks for their customers, have come out of nowhere, possessing in 1945 assets of less than $500 million but owning close to $40 billion in securities 22 years later.

As the insurance companies explain their moves, they are hardly abandoning the concept of a guaranteed return, as from a life insurance policy. Neither are they totally embracing the equity concept.

Instead, they are recognizing that mutual funds in various combinations with life insurance may be more suited to a buyer's needs and aspirations than a fixed return.

This, of course, is especially true during inflation, which some analysts fear may be with us for many years. If this turns out to be true, the fixed return would really be a shrinking return.

The insurance companies hope to offset this limitation both for themselves and their customers by establishing their own funds or by purchasing existing ones, and then offering shares for sale.

The implications of these moves are enormous. Some existing mutual funds are welcoming the new competition, for the impact on prices of a new flow of funds is bound to be bullish.

The full impact on prices cannot be foreseen yet, but it would appear that the battle for stocks will become very aggressive. Some analysts feel there will be a stock shortage, as billions of dollars seek a limited supply of stocks.

These analysts feel that the insurers will continue to operate in their old conservative manner and invest in blue chips, many of which are now lagging in price behind the newer, more glamorous stocks.

As their mutual funds invest more and more money in blue chips, it can be assumed that the insurance companies themselves will also invest more money in the same stocks.

The net effect could be to force price earnings ratios higher. Some glamor stocks now sell for 50 times earnings while some fundamentally sound stocks sell for only 10 to 12 times earnings. These ratios could be changed upward.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Dec. 19, the 353rd day of 1967. There are 12 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1777, George Washington and his Continental Army troops began their winter encampment at Valley Forge, Pa.

On this date: In 1675, in the last battle in King Philip's war, British colonists defeated the Narragansett Indians in Rhode Island.

In 1776, the American patriot, Thomas Paine said: "These are the times that try men's souls."

In 1812, the British occupied Fort Niagara.

In 1941, during World War II, British troops withdrew from Penang in Malaya.

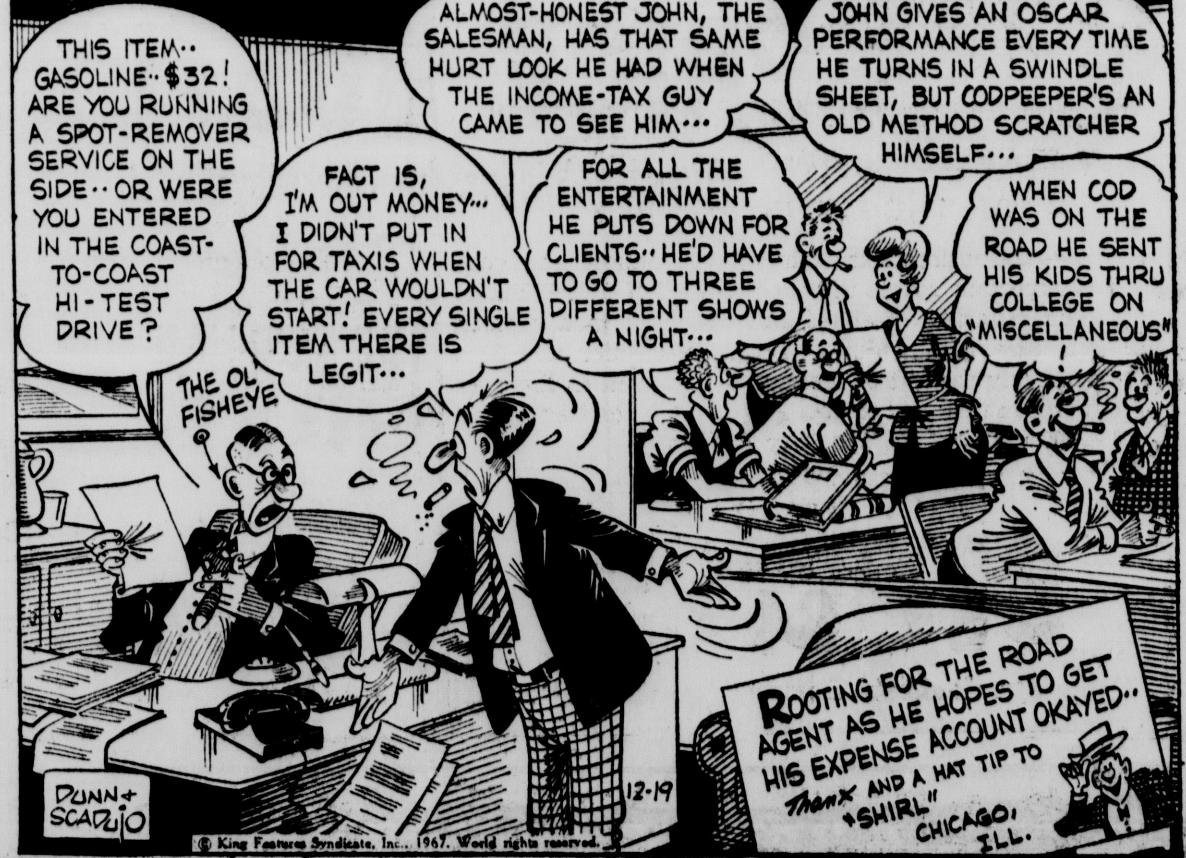

Also in 1941, Adolf Hitler took over as commander-in-chief of the German army.

In 1946, war broke out in Indochina as forces under Ho Chi Minh launched attacks against the French. Ten years ago, the Soviet Union claimed its industrial production had risen 10 per cent in one year.

Five years ago, the United States rejected the Soviet proposal for a moratorium on nuclear testing without system of policing.

One year ago, Jack Ruby said he alone was responsible for the killing of Lee Harvey Oswald.

Hatlo's They'll Do It Every Time

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
Representative L. Mendel Rivers, the South Carolina Democrat who is Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, is so disgusted with Le Grand Charles de Gaulle that he wants to dig up the thousands of American dead in France and bring them back to the U.S. for reburial.

With all respect to Congressman Rivers, this seems a little extreme. After all, France will outlast de Gaulle, and the nation that sent the Marquis de Lafayette to the New World and provided the fleet that helped Cornwallis' troops at Yorktown will some day be in our good graces again. Anyway, what does de Gaulle care about a few U.S. corpses? If we really want to hurt de Gaulle where he lives (which is in a world of bitter hatred for the "Anglo-Saxons"), Senator Vance Hartke of Indiana is offering a better idea. The Senator's new bill, which would forbid shipping gold to France for dollars until she has repaid the $6.7 billion owed to us on her World War I debt would corner de Gaulle right in his vindictive and avaricious little soul.

The question has been raised that Hartke's proposition might embarrass other and friendlier nations which are still in arrears on their World War I debts. All in all seventeen countries still owe us money dating back to the first crusade to make the world safe for democracy. Britain's World War I debt of $9.6 billion is larger than the French debt. But a few judicious winks in the direction of Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson should be enough to reassure England. After all, we do not intend to throw an economic blockade around the British Isles in order to collect the debt. Harold Wilson would merely have to refrain from presenting dollars to Washington for gold, which is something he is in a poor position to do anyway.

President Lyndon Johnson has turned his other cheek to de Gaulle on so many occasions that he must feel as though he had been sitting at the net watching the ball go back and forth in an interminable tennis game. There are numerous things that the U.S. might do to embarrass France. Item One: we could suggest cutting down on aid to African nations which are dependent on French support. (Not that we want to be mean to them, but Paris, don't you know, has been taking all our money by raiding our gold supply.) Item Two: We could start a movement of Tourists to By-Pass France, and a submovement to Boycott Champagne. Item Three: We could hint, delicately, that the West Germans might be provided with access to atomic weapons that would be under their own control.

Item Four: We could advocate throwing the French out of NATO on the ground that de Gaulle is more interested in building Soviet and Arab strength to undermine western Europe than he is in helping Belgium, West Germany, Italy, Greece, and other countries to counter the sleeping threat from the East. Item Five: We could bring pressure to bear on the South Vietnamese to make things difficult for French banks and commercial firms that have been funneling to Paris the dollars that we spend in Saigon. Item Six: We could withdraw ambassadorial representation to France. Item Seven: We could let Israel have war planes to the exact number that de Gaulle refuses to let go to the Israelis under contracts that were supposedly cleared up by Paris acceptance of down payments.

Meanwhile, the White House might keep reminding our friends and allies that de Gaulle actually talks like a Goebbels about most of the human race outside France. He has insulted the Jewish people, both in Israel and in the outer world. He has been quoted in a best-selling book, "La Tragedie du General," as saying that "The English are a nation of flunkies, the Germans a nation of pigs, and Italy does not exist." Of England, he has said "I want her in the nude." He has even insulted his own countrymen, as in his statement that "I have tried to lift France out of the mud but she will return to her errors and vomitings. I cannot prevent the French from being French."

We cannot prevent de Gaulle from being de Gaulle. But if he wants to isolate himself in the world, we can hustle the process along. Senator Hartke is making a commendable beginning.

Views on Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Flanders and Donald Swann are two of our British cousins with a slick comedy style of their very own and a droll, clever way with words and music. But they may not be every American television viewer's cup of tea.

The team was presented by CBS Monday night in an hour consisting of bits and pieces from their routine called "Another Drop of a Hat." Rather than a show, it was a comedy concert.

With Swann, who goes in for broad comedy, at the piano, and the bearded Flanders gliding about easily in a wheel chair, they moved from song to monologue—by Flanders—and from subject to subject. We heard about the curious ways of ostriches and the hippopotamus, the strange names of British railroad stations, Flanders, in a funny hat, had a long, dramatic story, couched in bullfighting terms, about the ritual of stuffing olives.

Although they are described as satirists, they failed to aim at the usual targets—the political establishments, youth or contemporary mores. They did complain mildly about the problem of communicating with modern scientists—"we don't know science and they don't know anything else."

Two of their most amusing pieces were Flanders' report on the frustrations of plane travel and a duet about the difficulty of finding parking space.

Some of the points were missed, sometimes because the sound track was not too good and other times because of their accents.

Although the team had considerable success with their revue on Broadway, their television hour did not prove to be especially stimulating. This was largely because it was taped on a theater stage with an audience out front. This technique rarely translates successfully into the kind of intimacy required.

On NBC, "The Danny Thomas Hour" came up with a cartoon show which was a highly souped-up version of Dickens' "Cricket on the Hearth."

Danny provided the voice of the old toymaker and his daughter Mario was the voice of Bertha, the toymaker's daughter. Roddy McDowell provided the Cockney voice of the cricket, the jaunty, high-hatted hero of the tale, who adopted the family and helped it through its troubles, which included some twists and turns of plot that didn't seem to make any sense at all.

The animation, while colorful, was on the primitive side. The program, which has a holiday theme, may be one that NBC hopes to tag as a "classic"—which in televisionese means a program that can be pulled out each year, sold to a sponsor and rerun. If it is a classic, it would fit better into a time period when the audience consists almost entirely of young children.

Recommended tonight: "A Conversation with the President," ABC, CBS, NBC, 10-11 EST, in which Lyndon B. Johnson, in the White House, is interviewed by three correspondents, one from each network.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE BASIC REASON for the trouble aboard the Sinclair Lewis-Dorothy Thompson marital bark was that both principals were too famous—and too determined not to be outshone by each other.

There was one evening when they were entertaining a host of celebrities in their home. Miss Thompson was surrounded by admiring sycophants. The host stood ignored and fuming in a corner of the drawing room. Suddenly he came over to one whiskered guest, poked a finger in his midriff, and demanded angrily, "Remember me? I'm the man who wrote 'Main Street' and 'Arrowsmith'."

An applicant for a job with a Fifth Avenue department store gave his age as 47. To the question, "How long did you hold your last job?" he answered, "53 years." "How is it possible," scoffed the interviewer, "to work 53 years in 47?" The applicant explained, "Overtime."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

After complaining for many years about weakness and nervousness, it was finally found that I had low blood sugar. Is there any special kind of diet for this condition so that I will not have the feeling that I am about to faint during the day? What causes it to begin with?

Mr. C.O.A., Alabama
Dear Mr. A.: The condition you described is known medically as hypoglycemia, which means an abnormally low level of sugar in the blood. There are a number of causes of this condition which, with special testing, can be pinpointed. An overproduction of insulin from the pancreas, liver disease, hormone imbalance and infection are only a few of the major reasons for hypoglycemia. Fortunately, these serious reasons are not nearly as frequent as the others, which are more readily controlled.

If a patient goes for a long period of time without food he may develop a lowering of the blood sugar, followed by symptoms of rapid pulse, weakness, nervousness, headache and dizziness. These symptoms can occur with many other conditions and, therefore, should not, as I frequently warn, be used for self-diagnosis of low blood sugar.

The immediate treatment for this kind of a sudden episode of weakness is to take a glass of orange juice, sugar, candy or honey. People who are suspected of having hypoglycemia should not allow many hours to go by without some kind of in-between-meal snack.

When the problem is more complicated and when the exact cause is found this must, of course, be treated intensively. The diet for the relief of the symptoms of low blood sugar should include a high fat, high protein and low carbohydrate diet. Perhaps the most important aspect of the diet is that it should be distributed in at least seven or eight feedings during the 24-hour period. A slight snack immediately after waking and one just before going to bed should keep the blood sugar sufficiently elevated.

It is wise for people who are known to have attacks of hypoglycemia to keep a chocolate bar or candy on their persons, so that when the first feelings of weakness occur they can ward it off. Another suggestion might be to carry on one's person a letter instructing a "first-aid" what to do in case of a fainting spell.

The American Medical Association makes a readily identifiable medallion which can be worn around the wrist, neck or ankles. On it is engraved this or any other condition which may need emergency handling. Patients with diabetes are taught how to time the relationship between eating and their insulin injection since insulin produces a fall of blood sugar. When this kind of hypoglycemia is covered by food, the symptoms I described can be avoided. Hypoglycemia can be controlled by rigid adherence to all of the suggestions of the doctor.

Do not wait for a child to outgrow "cross eyes." Valuable time is wasted by waiting unless specifically directed by a physician.

Parkie Scott Plans Appeal

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Parkie Scott, 41, Oregonia farmer described as a Ku Klux Klan organizer, plans an appeal from his conviction Monday night in Warren County Court on a charge of obstructing an officer in performance of his duty.

The charge stemmed from Scott's barring of a lane on his farm to Warren County officers during a Klan rally there July 2, 1966. Scott was fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was ordered to post a $1,000 appeal bond.

Marine Corps:
Pfc. Michael D. Nissenbaum, Findlay; Lance Cpl. James T. Taylor, Grafton.

The World Today

By EDMOND LeBRETON (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Social Security benefit and tax scales—both up—and fuel to an argument about the retirement system that has been hot for some time and gets hotter as the average population gets younger.

Critics of the system say it is loaded against the young worker, that the wage earner starting out now or still in his early productive years is being taxed unfairly to pay benefits to those already retired or well on their way to retirement, who paid in much less.

Defenders say everyone, statistically speaking, stands to get a lot more out of Social Security than he puts in.

The mathematics involved are complex and the social and economic arguments finely drawn. Skipping the philosophical dispute, here is an effort to simplify the mathematics, rounding all figures:

Suppose a young man starts work Jan. 1, 1968, and continues until Jan. 1, 2013, at which time he is 65 and retires. Suppose further he starts out at $4,000 a year and gets annual raises of $1,000 until he passes the $7,800-a-year mark—the limit on which the payroll tax is levied.

Under the new rates, he would pay in a little less than $20,000 during his working life.

Of this total, however, almost $3,000 would have gone into medicare, giving him and his wife hospitalization rights in old age. Whether he ever actually recovered the equivalent of these contributions would, of course, depend on his and his wife's health.

Of the remaining $17,000 it is generally agreed that something must be charged off for the insurance value of Social Security during a man's working life.

If he had died leaving minor children, there would have been payments for them. If he had become disabled, he would have received payments.

Social Security values this insurance at 28 per cent of the contribution. Others put the figure as low as 20 per cent. Taking 25 per cent as a working figure reduces the $17,000 to $12,750 for retirement.

At the new benefit rates, the retired worker and his wife of the same age would receive $323 a month in 2013. So a couple would recoup the principal amount of the contribution in almost exactly three and a half years, or by the time they were

68½. An unmarried retired worker would take half again as long to do this.

Social Security actuaries say the life expectancy of a man who has reached 65 is 13½ years and that he can expect his wife to outlive him by five years.

These calculations don't take into account interest that might have been earned or capital gains that might have been realized by the worker if he had been able to keep and invest his Social Security contributions. But they also don't take into account the virtual certainty that Congress, which has made numerous changes in Social Security in the past 30 years, will make more during the next 45.

These probably will be in the direction of greater benefits, tending to give a mathematical break to the retired and the older active workers.

The calculations moreover don't take into account the employer's contributions, which are equal to those of the employee. These contributions provide the cushion enabling the system to broaden and, generally speaking, to pay the individual contributor more than he has put in.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The entrance of insurance companies into the mutual fund sales industry is partial admission that one of the keystones of life insurance—a guaranteed, fixed return—may be surrendering to inflation.

The decisions by which John Hancock and New England Mutual have moved into mutual funds were really made by their customers, potential and actual. The companies have had to accept the dictate of the buyer.

In the past two decades Americans have shown a growing interest in equity investments, in shares of stock that grow or shrink rather than remain fixed in the manner of life insurance payouts.

These people have been liberally rewarded, for stock prices have doubled on average in the past 10 years of economic expansion and millions of people have made their fortunes, large and small. The word has spread.

Since 1952 the shareowner population of America has grown from about 6.5 million to 23 million, expanding at the rate of nine per cent a year or nine times the gain in adult population during that time.

In the same period the insurance companies have seen their relative share of the dollar decline steadily, although the industry has continued to grow and remain profitable. It simply hasn't grown as fast as the fund industry.

Mutual funds, which invest in scores of stocks for their customers, have come out of nowhere, possessing in 1945 assets of less than $500 million but owning close to $40 billion in securities 22 years later.

As the insurance companies explain their moves, they are hardly abandoning the concept of a guaranteed return, as from a life insurance policy. Neither are they totally embracing the equity concept.

Instead, they are recognizing that mutual funds in various combinations with life insurance may be more suited to a buyer's needs and aspirations than a fixed return.

This, of course, is especially true during inflation, with some analysts fear may be with us for many years. If this turns out to be true, the fixed return would really be a shrinking return.

The insurance companies hope to offset this limitation both for themselves and their customers by establishing their own funds or by purchasing existing ones, and then offering shares for sale.

The implications of these moves are enormous. Some existing mutual funds are welcoming the new competition, for the impact on prices of a new flow of funds is bound to be bullish.

The full impact on prices cannot be foreseen yet, but it would appear that the battle for stocks will become very aggressive. Some analysts feel there will be a stock shortage, as billions of dollars seek a limited supply of stocks.

These analysts feel that the insurers will continue to operate in their old conservative manner and invest in blue chips, many of which are now lagging in price behind the newer, more glamorous stocks.

As their mutual funds invest more and more money in blue chips, it can be assumed that the insurance companies themselves will also invest more money in the same stocks.

The net effect could be to force price earnings ratios higher. Some glamor stocks now sell for 50 times earnings while some fundamentally sound stocks sell for only 10 to 12 times earnings. These ratios could be changed upward.

How the Weather Looks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

Except for clouds along the northern edge of the state it was clear over Ohio early today with temperatures mostly in the 30s.

Highs today were expected to be somewhat lower than Monday's, which set records at some places, but it still was to be mild for mid-December, with readings in the 50s.

Clear skies, light winds and dry air will mean temperatures in the 20s for most sections of the state tonight.

Generally fair and mild weather will continue Wednesday.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Clear and a little colder tonight, low in 20 and low 30s. Fair and mild Wednesday.

CENTRAL OHIO — Mostly fair with little change in temperature tonight and Wednesday. Low tonight near 30.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Mostly sunny and warm today and Wednesday. Fair and cooler tonight. Low tonight low 30s.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Clear and a little cooler tonight, lows in 20s. Wednesday fair and mild.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Tonight clear and mild, low 38-43. Wednesday sunny and warmer.

Percy Arrives For Israeli Tour

TEL AVIV (AP) — Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., called on the Soviet Union today to help solve the Arab refugee problem.

Percy, considered a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, arrived here from Tehran on his round-the-world "study mission."

He said in answer to a newsman's question: "The Arab refugee problem is a great problem, the kind that in humanitarian interest the Soviet Union could join in helping to solve."

In answer to another question, the senator said "whether under czars or commissars" the Russians have attempted to "exert power and influence in the Middle East."

Arrest 207 Protesters At Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Police arrested 207 antidraft demonstrators Monday at the Oakland Army Induction Center where they sought to block entrances and to halt buses headed for the building.

Those arrested and booked on such charges as suspicion of trespassing, disturbing the peace, failure to disperse and disorderly conduct appear in Municipal Court today. Four posted $200 bail and were released.

Five young men among the 1,500 persons gathered around the center were arrested by U.S. marshals for not carrying draft cards.

U.S. Atty. Cecil Poole said he had not ordered any arrests for nonpossession of draft cards and that as far as he knew no such arrests had ever been made before.

Poole pointed out that it is necessary to establish willfulness of nonpossession before there is a case which can be prosecuted.

He said he would ask the FBI to make a complete investigation of each man to see if there are grounds for prosecution.

Ex Marine Chief Claims Viet Policy Is 'Poppycock'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired Marine Corps commandant terms "pure, unadulterated poppycock" the notion that U.S. self interest is at stake in Vietnam.

Gen. David M. Shoup, a persistent war policy critic who retired as commandant in 1963, said Monday of those who contend the U.S. effort in Vietnam is necessary to halt communism's spread:

"They just keep trying to keep the people worried about the Communist crawling up the banks of Pearl Harbor, or crawling at the Palisades, or crawling up the beaches in Los Angeles, which of course is a bunch of pure, unadulterated poppycock."

Shoup said he is happy there is ultimate civilian control over the U.S. military "because I feel sure, if all the advice of the generals were taken, we'd really be in bad shape."

He said only negotiations could bring peace in Vietnam, with two deputies, said the five were trying to get into the induction center and that he first asked for identification and then for draft cards.

adding: "We've grossly underestimated these people's attitudes and their determination that what they're fighting for is something that belongs to them; that they're right; and that they're going to fight to the death."

Shoup's remarks were in an interview with Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., taped for broadcast over WNYC in New York City.

Train Derails At Greenfield

GREENFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Seven cars of a four-engine high-speed Baltimore & Ohio Railroad freight train derailed between Fourth and Fifth Streets early today, strewn debris near homes along the right-of-way. No one was hurt.

Railroad officials said a burned axle terminal derailed the 30th car of the 52-car freight, causing six others to pile up behind it.

One car thrown across the main line was expected to be moved by noon. The other six lay alongside the tracks. All cars derailed, including a box car of whiskey and some piggyback truck trailers cars, were extensively damaged.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, an announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, met with 50 Soviet citizens in Moscow meanwhile and said he "heard some new ideas."

But Romney, on an international tour prefacing the kickoff of his campaign, wouldn't say what the ideas were. He is expected to meet Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin today.

In other Vietnam-related developments:

—Another touring politician, Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., said in Saigon that President Johnson is following a moderate course on the war. Resnick has announced he'll seek to unseat Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., next year.

The congressman told newsmen he backs Johnson although he feels the overwhelming majority of Americans are "in favor of invading Cambodia, Laos and North Vietnam, and dropping the bomb on anyone who tries to stop us."

—Nine House Republicans

proposed a 60-day halt in U.S. bombing of northern North Vietnam during the holiday period.

But they said bombing of supply routes and depots in the southern section of the country should be continued during the proposed pause.

—Rep. William F. Moorhead, D-Pa., urged a convocation of Southeast Asian nations—including North Vietnam—to seek what he termed a regional solution to the Vietnam war.

Police Cruiser Kills School Guard

CLEVELAND (AP) — A police cruiser ran onto the sidewalk following a minor collision Monday and killed a 67-year-old school guard at the intersection of East 71st Street and Harvard Avenue when he was killed. The children, pupils at nearby Harvard Elementary School, were not hit.

Police said the cruiser was being pushed by a police tow truck when the driver swerved to avoid a collision with another car.

Order Bond In Truancies

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—A recent Clermont County Court policy requiring parents of truants to post bond guaranteeing their attendance at school was applied to three more cases Monday.

Judge Ralph A. Hill ordered Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Alsip, U.S. 50, Stonelick, both to post $100 bonds, to be forfeited if their children again are truants at Owensville Elementary or Clermont Northeastern High School.

The judge also required Mrs. Elenore Wakefield, Amelia, to post a similar bond to insure her daughter's attendance at Amelia High School.

Earlier, Judge John Erhardt had set a $100 bond for a Milford man whose son had been skipping classes.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—U.S. District Court here has continued until December 28 the case of James Wessner, 24, Blanchester, Ohio, charged with refusal to report for induction.

The court said the case was continued because certain documents had not yet arrived from Ohio. Wessner is a graduate student at the University of California in Berkeley.

How the Weather Looks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

Except for clouds along the northern edge of the state it was clear over Ohio early today with temperatures mostly in the 30s.

Highs today were expected to be somewhat lower than Monday's, which set records at some places, but it still was to be mild for mid-December, with readings in the 50s.

Clear skies, light winds and dry air will mean temperatures in the 20s for most sections of the state tonight.

Generally fair and mild weather will continue Wednesday.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Clear and a little colder tonight, low in 20 and low 30. Fair and mild Wednesday.

CENTRAL OHIO — Mostly fair with little change in temperature tonight and Wednesday. Low tonight near 30.

SOUTHEAST OHIO — Mostly sunny and warm today and Wednesday. Fair and cooler tonight. Low tonight low 30s.

NORTHWEST OHIO — Clear and a little cooler tonight, lows in 20s. Wednesday fair and mild.

SOUTHWEST OHIO — Tonight clear and mild, low 38-43. Wednesday sunny and warmer.

Percy Arrives For Israeli Tour

TEL AVIV (AP) — Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., called on the Soviet Union today to help solve the Arab refugee problem.

Percy, considered a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, arrived here from Tehran on his round-the-world "study mission."

He said in answer to a newsman's question: "The Arab refugee problem is a great problem, the kind that in humanitarian interest the Soviet Union could join in helping to solve."

In answer to another question, the senator said "whether under czars or commissars" the Russians have attempted to "exert power and influence in the Middle East."

Arrest 207 Protesters At Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Police arrested 207 antidraft demonstrators Monday at the Oakland Army Induction Center where they sought to block entrances and to halt buses headed for the building.

Those arrested and booked on such charges as suspicion of trespassing, disturbing the peace, failure to disperse and disorderly conduct appear in Municipal Court today. Four posted $200 bail and were released.

Five young men among the 1,500 persons gathered around the center were arrested by U.S. marshals for not carrying draft cards.

U.S. Atty. Cecil Poole said he had not ordered any arrests for nonpossession of draft cards and that as far as he knew no such arrests had ever been made before.

Poole pointed out that it is necessary to establish willfulness of nonpossession before there is a case which can be prosecuted.

He said he would ask the FBI to make a complete investigation of each man to see if there are grounds for prosecution.

Acting Marshal Trevelyn J. Blazard, who made the arrests

Ex Marine Chief Claims Viet Policy Is 'Poppycock'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired Marine Corps commandant terms "pure, unadulterated poppycock" the notion that U.S. self interest is at stake in Vietnam.

Gen. David M. Shoup, a persistent war policy critic who retired as commandant in 1963, said Monday of those who contend the U.S. effort in Vietnam is necessary to halt communism's spread:

"They just keep trying to keep the people worried about the Communist crawling up the banks of Pearl Harbor, or crawling up the beaches in Los Angeles, which of course is a bunch of pure, unadulterated poppycock."

Shoup said he is happy there is ultimate civilian control over the U.S. military "because I feel sure, if all the advice of the generals were taken, we'd really be in bad shape."

He said only negotiations could bring peace in Vietnam, with two deputies, said the five were trying to get into the induction center and that he first asked for identification and then for draft cards.

adding: "We've grossly underestimated these people's attitudes and their determination that what they're fighting for is something that belongs to them; that they're right; and that they're going to fight to the death."

Shoup's remarks were in an

Train Derails At Greenfield

GREENFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Seven cars of a four-engine high-speed Baltimore & Ohio Railroad freight train derailed between Fourth and Fifth Streets early today, scattering debris near homes along the right-of-way. No one was hurt.

Railroad officials said a burned axle terminal derailed the 30th car of the 52-car freight, causing six others to pile up behind it.

One car thrown across the main line was expected to be moved by noon. The other six lay alongside the tracks. All cars derailed, including a box car of whiskey and some piggyback truck trailers cars, were extensively damaged.

interview with Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., taped for broadcast over WNYC in New York City.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, an announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, met with 50 Soviet citizens in Moscow meanwhile and said he "heard some new ideas."

But Romney, on an international tour prefacing the kickoff of his campaign, wouldn't say what the ideas were. He is expected to meet Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin today.

In other Vietnam-related developments:

—Another touring politician, Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., said in Saigon that President Johnson is following a moderate course on the war. Resnick has announced he'll seek to unseat Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., next year.

The congressman told newsmen he backs Johnson although he feels the overwhelming majority of Americans are "in favor of invading Cambodia, Laos and North Vietnam, and dropping the bomb on anyone who tries to stop us."

—Nine House Republicans

proposed a 60-day halt in U.S. bombing of northern North Vietnam during the holiday period. But they said bombing of supply routes and depots in the southern section of the country should be continued during the proposed pause.

—Rep. William F. Moorhead, D-Pa., urged a convocation of Southeast Asian nations—including North Vietnam—to seek what he termed a regional solution to the Vietnam war.

Police Cruiser Kills School Guard

CLEVELAND (AP) — A police cruiser ran onto the sidewalk following a minor collision Monday and killed a 67-year-old school guard at the intersection of East 71st Street and Harvard Avenue when he was killed. The children, pupils at nearby Harvard Elementary School, were not hit.

Police said the cruiser was being pushed by a police tow truck when the driver swerved to avoid a collision with another car.

Order Bond In Truancies

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—A recent Clermont County Court policy requiring parents of truants to post bond guaranteeing their attendance at school was applied to three more cases Monday.

Judge Ralph A. Hill ordered Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Alsip, U.S. 50, Stonelick, both to post $100 bonds, to be forfeited if their children again are truants at Owensville Elementary or Clermont Northeastern High School.

The judge also required Mrs. Elenore Wakefield, Amelia, to post a similar bond to insure her daughter's attendance at Amelia High School.

Earlier, Judge John Erhardt had set a $100 bond for a Milford man whose son had been skipping classes.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—U.S. District Court here has continued until December 28 the case of James Wessner, 24, Blanchester, Ohio, charged with refusal to report for induction.

The court said the case was continued because certain documents had not yet arrived from Ohio. Wessner is a graduate student at the University of California in Berkeley.

ROYAL FLUSH COMBO — Pictured are members of the group which will provide the music for dancing at the New Year's Eve party at Pickaway Country Club.

Country Club New Year's Eve Party Slated

The New Year's Eve party at the Pickaway Country Club will feature dancing to the music of the Royal Flush. This group of musicians play all styles of dance music. They feature their own arrangements of tunes made popular by the Tijuana Brass.

The organization, which has been complimented for their versatility in adapting to audiences of varying age groups and musical preferences, have played for many groups in Columbus. During last summer they toured Puerto Rico and entertained at the Ramey A.F.B. in Aquadilla, Sabana Seca Communications Center in Toa Baja, Fort Allen at Ponce, Officers Beach Club in San Juan, Naval Radio Station in Isabella and Roosevelt Roads.

The combo includes Douglas Tomlinson who plays trumpet, trombone and baritone; Gregory Tomlinson on the drums; Charles Thurston, trumpet, alto sax and tenor sax; John Peterson, trumpet and Steve Jesseph, bass guitar. Dancing is made possible by the erection of a new portable dance floor in the club parlor.

Other highlights of the party include hats, streamers and noise makers, snacks throughout the evening and a full buffet dinner after midnight. Attendance is limited to members and their guests and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Charles Smith, 474-6150 or Mrs. Robert Hutzleman, 474-5375.

Lions Auxiliary Holds Annual Holiday Party

Lions Auxiliary held its Christmas party on Sunday at the Wardell Party Home with members' husbands as guests.

Everyone brought a picture of themselves when a baby, and a contest was held to guess to whom they belonged. The winners were Betty Sims and Dorothy Cook. The balance of the evening was spent in playing games and exchanging gifts.

Door prizes were won by Milton Griest and Robert Dick.

Committee in charge of arrangements were Ruth Griest, Leona Crites and Agnes Nau.

The next meeting of the auxiliary will be Jan. 15.

A gift exchange was held and door prizes awarded to Mrs. Charles Jolliffe and Mrs. Richard Koch. The remainder of the evening was spent singing Christmas carols.

Attending were Miss Barbara Boyd, Mrs. Reber Bell, Mrs. Ronald Gaines, Mrs. George Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jolliffe, Mr. and Mrs. John Kelchner, Dr. and Mrs. Herman Shuttleworth, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Koch and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Snook.

Mrs. C. Hedges Hosts Solaqua Garden Club

Mrs. C. W. Hedges of Ashville, entertained Solaqua Garden Club with a Christmas dinner and party recently in her home. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. James Holt and Mrs. Russell Perrill.

Mrs. E. R. Brooks, president, welcomed members and guests. Mrs. Clark McFarland, Mrs. Nelson Florence and Mrs. John Hedges. She expressed her appreciation to club members for their cooperation and help with the Pickaway Council of Garden Clubs' meeting held recently in the Robtown Parish House.

A short business session was held with reports and plans presented for the annual Christmas remembrance project.

Prizes were awarded for the best decorated gifts and they were exchanged between members.

Fill wine glasses (small ones) with shaved ice; pour creme de menthe over the ice and serve with short straws. Nice as dessert! For the straws, use a scissors to cut long straws into short lengths.

A Cooperative Cousin: John the Baptist

EDITOR'S NOTE — The family of Jesus was a close-knit one, with progenitors and antecedents that encompassed the whole spectrum of human character. The following, first of a five-part Christmas series about the kinsmen of Christ, deals with the roots of his family and one of its products, John the Baptist, a loner who was a contemporary cousin and forerunner of Jesus.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A prisonkeeper twisted an eight-inch key in the lock and pulled open the heavy, creaking door. He went down 29 stone steps into the black rockhewn dungeon, kicked the prisoner to his feet and brought him out in chains.

The man, clad in a camel pelt, blinked unseeingly into the daylight.

He was a cousin of Jesus. Guards led him to a wooden block and shoved him to his knees, clamping his neck down into the stocks. One of the soldiers raised a long broadsword in both hands and brought it swishing down, cutting off the head of John the Baptist.

He was a burning and shining lamp," Jesus said of him.

The two were of the same age. They shared in the same movement. John prepared the ground for it, and in its beginning stage, came to his violent end under orders of King Herod Antipas of Galilee.

Herod "feared lest the great influence John had over the people might put it in his power or inclination to raise a rebellion," writes the Jewish historian of that time, Flavius Josephus.

But the execution did not calm the king's fears nor did it stay the work started by that pair of contrasting but complementary kinsmen, John and Jesus.

"He must increase, but I must decrease," John said shortly before his fateful arrest. "This joy of mine is now full."

Out of this kind of tie, of blood, loyalty and conviction, grew the world-spanning brotherhood which commenced on that first Christmas.

It was not an individualistic, separately sacred enterprise stream. It was generated among men, in their race, their realm. It had an ancestry and a heritage. Its descendants are "fellow heirs," wrote St. Paul, "members of the same body."

That, in its breadth, is the family tree of Christ. "I am the vine," he said, "you are the branches."

The generations of the earth, from Adam on, flowed into that lineage. It was joined with the problems of every age — Of hunger, hostility, violence, death. It was interknit, connected, engrained with men's flesh and faculties.

It was like a seed sown in a field, Jesus said, "and the field is the world."

That wider relationship was also reflected in its specific origins, in the comprehensive blood line of that child born at Bethlehem. He had a mixed host of relatives. He came of prime stock.

It spanned a large intimate circle of varied attitudes in his time, in addition to the rugged ally, John.

It also went far back into the misty sources of life. In the recorded genealogy of Jesus, Matthew's gospel traces it back to Abraham, the wandering bedouin chieftain from the remote area of human origins in the Tigris-Euphrates valley.

Luke's gospel traces the line even further back to the prototype of mankind, to "Adam, the son of God," whose name means the species, "humanity" the inception of persons in creation.

Those lists of progenitors include all sorts of people great and lowly, noble and devious, shepherds and kings, honored monarchs such as David and Solomon and despots such as Rehoboam—a spectrum of human character.

Assorted racial strains, Hittite, Mohabite, Canaanite, also mingle in that Israelite line, including dependable women such as Ruth and scandal-tainted women such as Bathsheba who betrayed her husband; Tamar who tricked Judah into fathering her child, and Rahab, the harlot flax dyer of Jericho.

Since both parallels and differences appear in the lists, some scholars regard Luke's record as forebearers of Jesus' mother, Mary, and Matthew's as those of her husband, Joseph, legally regarded as Jesus' father.

Both Mary and Joseph were of the Davidic line, a prolific one, with numerous offspring in Jesus' day.

One of Mary's older cousins, Elizabeth, wife of the Temple priest, Zacharias, was the mother of John the Baptist, born only six months before Jesus.

It was to Elizabeth's home in the hills near Jerusalem that Mary journeyed to announce her pregnancy. "Blessed is the fruit of your womb," Elizabeth exclaimed. "For behold, the babe in my womb leaped for joy."

When John was born, his aged father exulted. "And you child will be called the prophet of the Most High." A short time later in the Bethlehem animal shelter, Mary gave birth to her son, wrapped him in bracing cloth strips and laid him in a manger of hay.

Unlike Jesus who grew up in the close association of people and who followed the woodworking trade of Joseph, John shunned his father's priestly vocation and withdrew from society.

He took to the desolate region southeast of Jerusalem toward the Dead Sea where scrolls of the ascetic Essenes have been found in caves. In solitude and silence, John steered his character and deciphered his callings.

When ready, at about the age of 30, he came storming out of the brooding wastelands, a grizzled, apocalyptic figure, burned dark by the sun, proclaiming to a restive, foreign-oppressed people:

"Prepare the way of the Lord . . . all flesh shall see the salvation of God!"

"Who are you?" the anxious asked.

"I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness. 'Make straight the way of the Lord . . . After me comes he who is mightier than I, the throng of whose sandals I am not worthy to stoop down and untie. I have baptized you with water, but he will baptize you with the Holy Spirit.'"

John had no inkling it would be his cousin, and whether the two had seen much of each other since boyhood is uncertain. At first, when Jesus offered himself for baptism, John protested his own comparative unworthiness, but Jesus insisted: "Let it be so now; for thus it is fitting for us to fulfill all righteousness." In that, too, the man of Nazareth linked himself with his fellow men, involving himself in all humanity.

This kinsman of Jesus not only stirred each official alarm that the Roman empire's puppet King Herod feared an uprising, but John also had assailed the king for violating Jewish moral law by divorcing his wife to marry his brother's wife Herodias.

It was she, Scripture relates, who advised her daughter, Salome, to ask for the imprisoned John's head, when Herod, pleased with her dancing at a palace party, offered her anything she wanted.

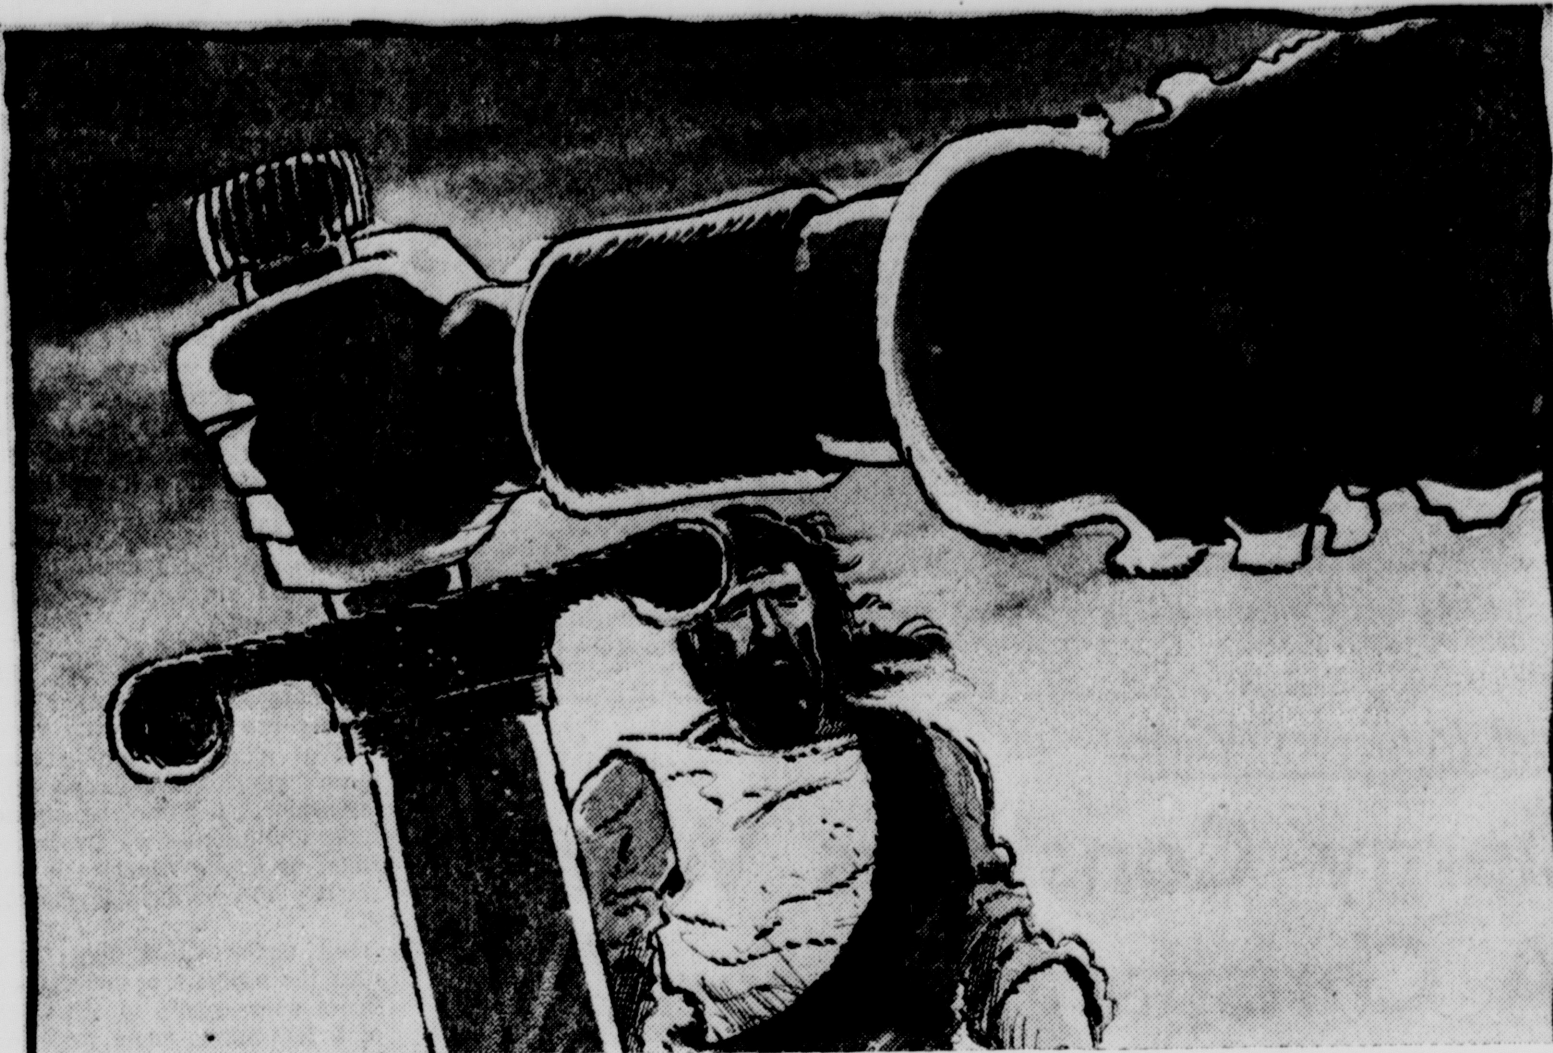

And John's "head was brought on a platter and given to the girl, and she brought it to her mother." the baptizer's disciples came and took his body, buried it and reported to Jesus what had happened.

"Truly," Jesus said, "among those born of women, there has risen no one greater than John the Baptist."

The spark John struck in Judea flamed in the ensuing ministry of Jesus, the force of it still haunting Herod. "John I beheaded, but who is this about whom I hear such rumors," he worried, "John whom I beheaded has been raised."

It wasn't that, of course; but it was a member of the same family, carrying on and finishing a job, bringing a seed to fruition.

GOP Party Chiefs Still Like Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is still the first pick among Republican party professionals for the GOP presidential nomination but two other top unannounced prospects are closing his lead, a new poll says.

Elsewhere on the political scene, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, only major announced GOP candidate, is in Moscow and indications were he would meet Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin; Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said President Johnson is in political trouble in his home state of Texas, and Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., a critic of the Vietnam war, said he's seriously thinking of entering the Indiana Democratic presidential primary as a favorite-son candidate.

The Gallup Poll said Sunday that while 52 per cent of the Republican county chairmen still prefer Nixon as the party's 1968 standard-bearer, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is ahead of him for the first time in the East. In a similar poll last April, Rockefeller was a weak third in the East behind Nixon and Romney.

Dr. George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, said Gov. Ronald Reagan of California has made enough gains among the party chairmen to make him second choice for the nomination, with 24 per cent of the professionals listing him as first preference. Rockefeller scored as first choice with 14 per cent, Romney 5 per cent and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois 6 per cent.

Romney, on a foreign tour, is in the Soviet Union for two days. The Soviet government told the U.S. Embassy Romney will meet Soviet officials. While neither the Soviets nor the embassy would say which leaders, indications were it would be Kosygin.

Nixon was in Moscow last March but top officials there declined to see him.

Romney later will visit South Vietnam.

Roundtowners
Oppose Debate
And Protests

Thousands die in Vietnam and billions are spent in an effort to insure freedom there. But what of at home?

Since Magna Carta the rights to dissent, assemble and petition have been guaranteed essentials of republics.

Circleville residents would now destroy 700 years of toil by suspending these rights, all because of a bearded bedraggled few.

Demonstration against the war should be outlawed according to 72 per cent of Roundtowners polled in a recent Herald questionnaire.

DEBATE and dissent on Vietnam should be limited by the government according to 41 per cent questioned as opposed to only 30 percent who favored its continuance.

In the name of freedom abroad, residents would slaughter basic Bill of Rights freedoms like an old cow.

Vietnam, right or wrong, is beyond the pale of our discussion; but freedom is not.

Abolished freedoms here to guarantee freedom there is logic to no one.

John Purcell, staff writer for The Herald, has written these articles on Vietnam based upon information obtained through questionnaires and personal interviews.

Purcell, a graduate of Miami University, is currently writing his thesis for his master's degree in political science.

Outlaw dissent today, ban assembly for a minority tomorrow, and then what by years end?

Government and bureaucratic control paralleled by loss of local autonomy and personal freedom have always followed in republics where expediency of the moment has overridden democratic traditions of centuries.

YET suspension of these traditions is what a large percent of locals want.

Views such as these, striking at the heart of our republic, are only a part of the huge cost of the war. How much more will war fever destroy both here and abroad before the conflict ends?

We fight for freedom abroad, let us not destroy it at home.

Negotiation
Favored by Roundtowners

Circleville residents favor negotiation of the Vietnam war.

In a recent Herald survey of city residents 48 per cent stated that although they agreed with present US policy in Vietnam they would like increased efforts at negotiations.

Increased military pressure with total military victory as a final goal was favored by only 32 per cent of Roundtowners. However this is a nine per cent increase from a national response of 23 per cent favoring such action five months ago.

Free election of a government was believed to be a necessary guarantee in such negotiations, by 32 per cent of those responding, while 16 per cent thought such negotiations should guarantee the existence of an anti-communist government.

To achieve such desired goals 80 per cent of local residents believe bombing North Vietnam should continue as compared with 12 per cent who oppose it.

China, sprawling communist giant of the north, as a military target was favored by 24 per cent of Roundtowners while 35 per cent were against such action.

much more extensive now than before—they have many more missiles now than before—their weapons are more sophisticated now than before. In short, we have accomplished nothing except the loss of billions of dollars and the unconscionable waste of human lives.

Is our policy really costing the Communists more to continue this war? It is an unrefuted fact that it is costing the United States much more to follow this policy and the most regrettable part is the increased cost of American lives.

Would the American people believe that in mid-1967, after 2½ years of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam—an area about the size of Michigan—only 3 out of every 10 significant military targets had ever been struck by U.S. airpower?

Would the American people believe that more than a hundred vital fixed enemy positions in North Vietnam, including most of the air defense control centers that have accounted for more than 600 U.S. planes, most of his major airfields and all of his naval facilities, could not be attacked under Washington orders?

Would the American people believe that 60 percent of the key targets that make up North Vietnam's transportation network were immune from our air attack?

Would the American people believe that high-level directives for more than 2 years prevented American airmen from hitting

Local Ministers' Views

Clergy Considers War
"A Christian Concern"

"The church in Circleville and the world has lost its moral force, particularly concerning Vietnam. We give sympathy and support to our members, both servicemen and conscientious objectors, but we can no longer lead them."

So the Rev. Paul Wachs of Circleville's First Methodist Church summed up the attitudes and responses of local clergy.

Msgr. Joseph McGlynn and the Reverends David Allardice, Wachs' and Henderson's, the more outspoken of the city's clergy, were in agreement that something should be done about Vietnam. The question is "what?"

Despite 15,000 Americans dead in Vietnam "my parishners just aren't concerned. Their attitudes run from mild regret to entertainment as they follow the Viet war with about as much concern as they follow a ball game or 'Peyton Place,'" said the Rev. Wachs.

But if the local churches haven't said anything the national conferences have released veritable avalanches of papers on the subject. "But they don't say anything," said Rev. Wachs.

Statements of the church conferences have ranged from mild castigations of the governments and pleas for cease-fires to long-worded ambiguous statements that lose their meanings.

The Catholic Church has started in its releases that it wants justice in Vietnam, commented Father McGlynn. To this end the Pope and the Church have used their influence.

"We should strive for peace," begins a statement of the Methodist Board of Christian Concern which closely parallels a recent statement of the Episcopal conference in Seattle.

But peace and justice become ambiguous when applied to a war thousands of miles away. Does justice mean complete US withdrawal, an end to bombings, or an invasion of China?

CAN peace be won by a unilateral cease fire by America, negotiations, or by an increased effort to stop the Viet Cong?

Only the Methodists have been specific in their proposals. The Board of Christian Concern called for an immediate unilateral cease fire and negotiations through the United Nations with both North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front.

The Methodist statement followed a release by Reinhold Niebuhr, perhaps America's foremost living theologian, that there is no ideological, moral or economic reason for the US in Vietnam.

"Perhaps," Niebuhr stated "the cost of lives must be attributed not to our wealth but to our self-righteousness."

As the voice of God and mankind's conscience, said Episcopal minister David Allardice, we should speak to our parishners. But everything we have to say seems irrelevant. Everything has to be qualified.

"I don't like war, but we may have no other choice. We shouldn't bomb North Vietnam but it may be necessary. It is imperative that we negotiate but when and with whom? How does the church decide?"

OUR officials are dealing with the Vietnam as they see it, commented Pastor Henderson, and we must obey the law.

But when laws have preceded? The church must recognize the law of the state, but ever since the Saints Aquinas and Augustine the church has ruled that a Christian can participate only in a just war. "And what is a just war?" asks Father McGlynn.

The new morality, he continued, which everyone speaks of, holds that each man must decide such issues by his own conscience. The congregation must now take the responsibility to speak and its priest, minister.

But my church doesn't even whisper, let alone speak on social issues commented the Rev. Wachs. We spend our time building bigger Sunday schools and lose more of the beliefs and ideas that should be taught there.

And the clergy doesn't bring the subject up.

"We don't speak of it from the pulpit, quite simply because we are afraid to. We don't want to upset anyone and lose our collection moneys. The city's churches are stain-glassed country clubs and unless the congregation speak up we won't say anything," responded one clergyman who preferred to remain anonymous.

But if the local churches haven't said anything the national conferences have released veritable avalanches of papers on the subject. "But they don't say anything," said Rev. Wachs.

Statements of the church conferences have ranged from mild castigations of the governments and pleas for cease-fires to long-worded ambiguous statements that lose their meanings.

The Catholic Church has started in its releases that it wants justice in Vietnam, commented Father McGlynn. To this end the Pope and the Church have used their influence.

"We should strive for peace," begins a statement of the Methodist Board of Christian Concern which closely parallels a recent statement of the Episcopal conference in Seattle.

But peace and justice become ambiguous when applied to a war thousands of miles away. Does justice mean complete US withdrawal, an end to bombings, or an invasion of China?

CAN peace be won by a unilateral cease fire by America, negotiations, or by an increased effort to stop the Viet Cong?

Only the Methodists have been specific in their proposals. The Board of Christian Concern called for an immediate unilateral cease fire and negotiations through the United Nations with both North Vietnam and the National Liberation Front.

The Methodist statement followed a release by Reinhold Niebuhr, perhaps America's foremost living theologian, that there is no ideological, moral or economic reason for the US in Vietnam.

"Perhaps," Niebuhr stated "the cost of lives must be attributed not to our wealth but to our self-righteousness."

As the voice of God and mankind's conscience, said Episcopal minister David Allardice, we should speak to our parishners. But everything we have to say seems irrelevant. Everything has to be qualified.

"I don't like war, but we may have no other choice. We shouldn't bomb North Vietnam but it may be necessary. It is imperative that we negotiate but when and with whom? How does the church decide?"

OUR officials are dealing with the Vietnam as they see it, commented Pastor Henderson, and we must obey the law.

But when laws have preceded? The church must recognize the law of the state, but ever since the Saints Aquinas and Augustine the church has ruled that a Christian can participate only in a just war. "And what is a just war?" asks Father McGlynn.

The new morality, he continued, which everyone speaks of, holds that each man must decide such issues by his own conscience. The congregation must now take the responsibility to speak and its priest, minister.

Facing the Draft

High School Seniors
Have Differing Views

Pickaway County's 232 male high school seniors must face military service with more than one out of every two being drafted this year.

The more intelligent and fortunate can escape the war by attending one of Ohio's universities or colleges. But this merely postpones, not removes, the obligation of military service.

"I am not going to college because I want to," said one high academic Circleville senior. "I'd rather take a year or so off just to think and plan my future, but there is no deferment for thinking."

"I don't think I am ready for college yet, but I guess I'll go because I am even less ready for Vietnam."

"SUCH sentiments are not alone among county seniors, but neither are they the only ones. "We might be wrong over there" explained a Teays Valley senior, but I think we should fight now because we are there. Right or wrong America is our country and we have to support it."

But under all of this there runs the problem of conscience. From some place in the back of a few minds come lingering phrases learned in church.

"I was raised a Catholic," began a Logan Elm social studies student. "I've been told to love, not to kill."

"Now I am told to kill in Asia, not for America's safety, not for a people fighting by your side for their freedom — because the Vietnamese don't fight with us — not even to stop communism — because Ho Chi Minh is more of a nationalist than communist and he has always hated China."

"Your just told to kill because that is the order, no reason for it, just kill. How do I justify that to myself?"

Shaking his head he just turned and left. Like many of America's young today he was expressing a frustration and concern over a problem few people can understand. He is not alone in the halls of Pickaway's schools.

But if some students are idealistic about their principles and the war others are pragmatic. Said a Westfall athlete "enlistment is the only thing that makes sense right now. "You can either enlist directly or in ROTC at college. But at least this way you have a little bit better choice over what you will be doing and where you will be going."

Dissent on the draft is also growing in local schools though at present it is quite small. Some consider the system unfair, others think it unwise.

One other group appeared in the Herald survey — "emigres" — those who will leave the United States.

Four per cent of the students interviewed said that they have given careful consideration to going to Canada to escape draft.

"I am not a communist, a beatnik, nor do I hate my country," began one thin grey eyed senior. "But I do oppose the war."

"Don't get me wrong, I think you should fight some times; but Vietnam is not that time."

"I can't justify killing a man simply because he doesn't want us in his country, but I am not a CO (conscientious objector) so what else can I do. Our ancestors left their country to escape wars, and now I will do the same."

"MY father says he will disinherit me if I leave, but I would feel like a German in the last war if I fought in an unjust war."

"And I'll never be able to come home again," he said softly, "never again." The teacher standing near-by commented that the silence following those last words was almost deafening.

But Vietnam is a reality now and 76 per cent of the students think it is necessary, though only 20 per cent think that the US should have gotten into it originally.

Summarizing, one student put it this way: "Vietnam is a reality, right or wrong it's there and we have to live with it. The question is how to survive it."

Roundtowners
Oppose Debate
And Protests

Thousands die in Vietnam and billions are spent in an effort to insure freedom there. But what of at home?

Since Magna Carta the rights to dissent, assemble and petition have been guaranteed essentials of republics.

Circleville residents would now destroy 700 years of toil by suspending these rights, all because of a bearded bedraggled few.

Demonstration against the war should be outlawed according to 72 per cent of Roundtowners polled in a recent Herald questionnaire.

DEBATE and dissent on Vietnam should be limited by the government according to 41 per cent questioned as opposed to only 30 percent who favored its continuance.

In the name of freedom abroad, residents would slaughter basic Bill of Rights freedoms like an old cow.

Vietnam, right or wrong, is beyond the pale of our discussion; but freedom is not.

Abolished freedoms here to guarantee freedom there is logic to no one.

John Purcell, staff writer for The Herald, has written these articles on Vietnam based upon information obtained through questionnaires and personal interviews.

Purcell, a graduate of Miami University, is currently writing his thesis for his master's degree in political science.

Outlaw dissent today, ban assembly for a minority tomorrow, and then what by years end?

Government and bureaucratic control paralleled by loss of local autonomy and personal freedom have always followed in republics where expediency of the moment has overridden democratic traditions of centuries.

YET suspension of these traditions is what a large percent of locals want.

Views such as these, striking at the heart of our republic, are only a part of the huge cost of the war. How much more will war fever destroy both here and abroad before the conflict ends?

We fight for freedom abroad, let us not destroy it at home.

Negotiation
Favored by Roundtowners

Circleville residents favor negotiation of the Vietnam war. In a recent Herald survey of city residents 48 per cent stated that although they agreed with present US policy in Vietnam they would like increased efforts at negotiations.

Increased military pressure with total military victory as a final goal was favored by only 32 per cent of Roundtowners. However this is a nine per cent increase from a national response of 23 per cent favoring such action five months ago.

Free election of a government was believed to be a necessary guarantee in such negotiations, by 32 per cent of those responding; while 16 per cent thought such negotiations should guarantee the existence of an anti-communist government.

To achieve such desired goals 80 per cent of local residents believe bombing North Vietnam should continue as compared with 12 per cent who oppose it.

China, sprawling communist giant of the north, as a military target was favored by 24 per cent of Roundtowners while 25 per cent were against such action.

much more extensive now than before—they have many more missiles now than before—their weapons are more sophisticated now than before. In short, we have accomplished nothing except the loss of billions of dollars and the unconscionable waste of human lives.

Is our policy really costing the Communists more to continue this war? It is an unrefuted fact that it is costing the United States much more to follow this policy and the most regrettable part is the increased cost of American lives.

Would the American people believe that in mid-1967, after 2½ years of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam—an area about the size of Michigan—only 3 out of every 10 significant military targets had ever been struck by U.S. airpower?

Would the American people believe that more than a hundred vital fixed enemy positions in North Vietnam, including most of the air defense control centers that have accounted for more than 600 U.S. planes, most of his major airfields and all of his naval facilities, could not be attacked under Washington orders?

Would the American people believe that 60 percent of the key targets that make up North Vietnam's transportation network were immune from our air attack?

Would the American people believe that high-level directives for more than 2 years prevented American airmen from hitting these targets?

Local Ministers' Views

"A Christian Concern"

"The church in Circleville and the world has lost its moral force, particularly concerning Vietnam. We give sympathy and support to our members, both servicemen and conscientious objectors, but we can no longer lead them."

So the Rev. Paul Wachs of Circleville's First Methodist Church summed up the attitudes and responses of local clergy.

Msgr. Joseph McGlynn and the Reverends David Allardye, Wachs' and Henderson's, the more outspoken of the city's clergy, were in agreement that something should be done about Vietnam. The question is "what?"

Despite 15,000 Americans dead in Vietnam "my parishners just aren't concerned. Their attitudes run from mild regret to entertainment as they follow the Viet war with about as much concern as they follow a ball game or 'Peyton Place,' said the Rev. Wachs.

Statements of the church conferences have ranged from mild castigations of the governments and pleas for cease-fires to long-winded ambiguous statements that lose their meanings.

The Catholic Church has started in its releases that it wants justice in Vietnam, commented Father McGlynn. To this end the Pope and the Church have used their influence.

Vietnam War and Pickaway County

Vietnam is a dim dream, at worst a bad nightmare, to most Roundtowners.

The increase of approximately 30 per cent more men taken from Pickaway County life and economy since the war began is an unreal statistic.

Names of countians Sgt. Frank Smith, Pfc. Lloyd Hughey, L. Cpl. Ronald Ash and Capt. William Barthelmas Jr. who died in the Viet war have faded gracefully into the dull grey of memories best forgotten.

More than 131 boys will be required this year to meet the counties military requirements.

COMBINED senior male enrollment of Circleville, Logan Elm, Peays Valley and Westfall is only 232.

Fifty-six per cent, more than one out of two, of the above number will be drafted this year; and the number can be expected to increase as the desire for a total military victory increases.

Cost to the county economy of the nearly 300 local men under arms run in excess of one and one-half million dollars per year; money normally spent at home for food, clothes, schools and taxes.

Conscience is believed by some local church leaders to have been another cost of the war.

"The war is wrong and we know it," said a local clergyman, "but the church has lost both the desire and the ability to exert any moral influence."

The nation that sent aid to victims of both sides in the Arab-Israeli dispute, that sent relief to both England and Australia in the last war, now fights with its conscience about blood and Red Cross donations to North and South Vietnam.

"THE people are selling their consciences about a war they don't understand," said another clergyman, "and all they ask is to be left in blissful ignorance of the facts."

"As the war goes on local people become more insulated to it and react less," said a judge, "and the war is not now in sight."

Neither is the cost to Pickaway County and the country.

MEMORIAL TOWER — For the first Pickaway Countian to die in Vietnam, Capt. William J. Barthelmas, Jr., the above pictured tower on the grounds of Circleville High School was erected. Three more local men have died in Vietnam since then.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE— We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Sir:

In my official capacity as Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer I come in contact with a large majority of the veterans of this county, veterans of WW I, WW II, the Korean Conflict, and the Vietnam conflict.

The large majority of these veterans, and I, myself, feel that the United States definitely is not out of order for being involved in the Vietnam issue.

If anything, the majority of veterans that I have talked to feel that the United States is going too easy in this war, they feel that more man-power should be sent to Vietnam, and more bombing should take place, and that nothing short of total peace should be accepted.

As a whole I feel that the veterans, not all veterans, true, but most veterans of Pickaway County, in a sense agree with the feelings as expressed by Vice President Humphrey in that the United States is winning the war.

They realize that this war won't be over tomorrow, next month, or even by the presidential election in November, but we are winning. The process of winning is slow, many feel that it could be sped up.

All Americans want peace. War is disliked, and peace is always popular. All wars are unpopular. Truman's action in Korea, Greece and Turkey, Lincoln's fight to save the Union and even the American War of Independence were unpopular among many at the time.

People are often too shortsighted to see the future results of their acts; they only see the present cost of war and they want it ended. The words of anti-war sects are not surrender, retreat, treachery or betrayal of dependent friends; the word used is PEACE.

Desire for peace as contrasted to the loss of more lives for a little known country with peculiar habits and no historical ties to the western world drives many well-meaning people to demonstrate against the Vietnam policy.

But true peace is not and will not be attained by withdrawing. We fight and die, not for peace, but for freedom, not the Communist promises of Utopias unknown, but for freedom for all the world.

Our culture-historically, religiously and politically — has taught us to cherish peace above all other conditions. Today the price is a broken promise, tomorrow our honor, world trust will be next and finally, freedom.

Peace, not at the cost of our freedom, for we will be gone by then, but at the cost of our children's freedom.

The haunting question we must ask about Vietnam is "Will freedom be too high a price to pay for peace?"

The answer is that we must continue our fight for total peace in Vietnam and throughout the world. Only then can we have the honest and just freedom that our parents and grandparents fought for, and which, if we do not secure in this world, our children will have to fight for in the future.

He was one of six persons indicted by a federal grand jury, including Antonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo, a ranking Cosa Nostra figure.

Two Local Servicemen Speak of War in Vietnam

Two Pickaway Countians speak of their time and reactions in Vietnam. Both have requested that their names be withheld.

Their statements are reproduced here exactly as they were given.

"I had a job to do and I did it, just like thousands of other G.I.s over there. They all faced injury and possible death to help fight for freedom.

"If you don't stop them over there we'll have to do it over here.

"Engagements may last for days, then there may be weeks with nothing.

"Villagers wave and smile at you when you go by, but you know some of them are hiding VC and guns, behind their backs.

"WE are fighting a new kind of war over there, it will take a long time to win it and we will need a lot of support over there.

"Freedom has to be paid for—it isn't free.

If we don't beat Charlie now and show the Commies we can't be shoved around we'll be in trouble all over the world.

"I don't know for sure how we got into this war, but a lot of men have fought and died in it and we can't give up now. We are there and we have to stay until the job is done.

"As for my fighting over there; this country gave me life and a living, so the least I can do is pay it back somehow. I leave the right or wrong of the war to men who know what they are talking about."

"The battlefield is fearful. Heat and humidity is stifling, you raise one finger and you work up a sweat.

"FOR weeks you may go out on patrol and never see a VC. You begin to wish something, anything, would happen.

"The it happens. You're in the middle of it. Fighting may last a few minutes or days.

"The smell of gunpowder, mold and the dead is the most revolting part of battle. You don't see, or notice, the bodies till later.

"First time I saw a dead man I got sick. It wasn't a pretty sight.

"When you see your buddy, a friendly freckled faced kid from Kansas City laughing one minute and turned into a giggling idiot crazed with pain as his own brains run down his face the next, you get mad—damn mad.

"The very thought of a peace-nick back home sickens you.

"THEN you get back to camp and you begin to think about what happened and why; you try not to but you can't help it.

"When done thinking you are either a peace-maker, a mad man or a degenerate.

"After your first sight of battle you begin to pray before patrols; not to find Charlie, but that you just get back alive.

"You pray that if you do kill a VC its one who likes to kill, and you hope that the villagers that may have been hit in the last battle were men who deserved to die. But you don't know, you just shoot."

"Don't think about the other guy" is the only advice you get. But you do, and every bullet you shot kills a little bit of you.

ting five out of six of North Vietnam's key industrial targets?

That however primitive, nearly 90 percent of the targets in the enemy's war-making industrial base remained unscathed?

Is this the proper way to conduct a war?

The President stated "we face more cost, more loss, and more agony"; is this all we have to look forward to?

Is not this American policy costing us far more than we can ever gain? It is one thing to deprive the enemy of victory. It is one thing to say he can no longer succeed. It is one thing to increase his cost of continuing the war. Cannot the Communists claim they have done the same thing to us?

How can we attain victory when our policy is not victory? How much longer do we have to be patient?

How much longer can we afford patience?

Why, when this policy of the administration has utterly and miserably failed, must it be continued?

The enemy in North Vietnam knows where his vital targets are. He knows which have been attacked and which enjoy privileged sanctuary.

He knows many of his most vital and vulnerable strategic assets have been spared.

Is it possible from this policy that the Communists will interpret it as proof of the American lack of will and courage? Does it encourage him that prolonging the slaughter and making it more costly for America will cause our eventual defeat or withdrawal?

What greater sacrifices do the American people have to make? How much more loss must they suffer?

How many more hardships must they endure? Is it not time to win—or at the very least to change the present administration policies?

Personal Income Takes Big Leap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income took its biggest jump in more than two years during November, with rising wages and salaries accounting for the bulk of the gain, the Commerce Department reported today.

Income rose by $5.8 billion at an annual rate during the month to reach a record pace at $641.7 billion. It was the biggest advance since September 1965.

The department said wages and salaries increased by $5.4 billion and only $2 billion of this stemmed from the ending of automobile and other strikes which had depressed payrolls the previous two months.

Continued economic expansion accounted for most of the gain in payrolls, the department added.

MEMORIAL TOWER — For the first Pickaway Countyman to die in Vietnam, Capt. William J. Barthelmas, Jr., the above pictured tower on the grounds of Circleville High School was erected. Three more local men have died in Vietnam since then.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE:— We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Sir:

In my official capacity as Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer I come in contact with a large majority of the veterans of WW I, WW II, the Korean Conflict, and the Vietnam conflict.

The large majority of these veterans, and I, myself, feel that the United States definitely is not out of order for being involved in the Vietnam issue.

ACCUSED IN DEATHS—Richard I. Noble, 20, Orofino, Idaho, was arrested and charged in the deaths of three young men in a fire at a fraternity house in Philadelphia. He is a sophomore at the U. of Pennsylvania.

Lindsay Aide Marcus Indicted

NEW YORK (AP)—James L. Lindsay, who recently resigned as one of Mayor John V. Lindsay's top aides, was indicted Monday, accused of taking part in a Cosa Nostra masterminded kickback deal involving an $800,000 city contract.

He was one of six persons indicted by a federal grand jury, including Antonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo, a ranking Cosa Nostra figure.

Vietnam War and Pickaway County

Vietnam is a dim dream, at worst a bad nightmare, to most Roundtowners.

The increase of approximately 30 per cent more men taken from Pickaway County life and economy since the war began is an unreal statistic.

Names of countyans Sgt. Frank Smith, Pfc. Lloyd Hughey, L. Cpl. Ronald Ash and Capt. William Barthelmas Jr. who died in the Viet war have faded gracefully into the dull grey of memories best forgotten.

More than 131 boys will be required this year to meet the county's military requirements.

COMBINED senior male enrollment of Circleville, Logan Elm, Leys Valley and Westfall is only 232.

Fifty-six per cent, more than one out of two, of the above number will be drafted this year; and the number can be expected to increase as the desire for a total military victory increases.

Cost to the county economy of the nearly 300 local men under arms run in excess of one and one-half million dollars per year; money normally spent at home for food, clothes, schools and taxes.

Conscience is believed by some local church leaders to have been another cost of the war.

"The war is wrong and we know it" said a local clergyman, "but the church has lost both the desire and the ability to exert any moral influence."

The nation that sent aid to victims of both sides in the Arab-Israeli dispute, that sent relief to both England and Australia in the last war, now fights with its conscience about blood and Red Cross donations to North and South Vietnam.

"THE people are selling their consciences about a war they don't understand," said another clergyman, "and all they ask is to be left in blissful ignorance of the facts."

"As the war goes on local people become more insulated to it and react less," said a judge, "and the war is not now in sight."

Neither is the cost to Pickaway County and the country.

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: The pygmies carry Claus and Tweedleknecs off to meet their king, the Pigwidgen. The elf boasts that Claus is more powerful than the king.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN THE EATING CONTEST

The Pigwidgen was a mite, a dwarfing, a peewee, a runt of a pygmy.

He marched up to Claus. "What are you doing here?" he demanded in a high squeaky voice.

Claus told himself he could not possibly be afraid of a creature so small. "You have put a curse on all the children of the land," he said sharply. "I have come to ask you to lift it."

"You promised not to open the black purse that was left in your keeping," said the Pigwidgen. "I myself left the purse there to test you. The promise was broken and now see children sleep."

"It was no fault of the children," cried Claus. "You must wake them."

"Yes," blurted Patrick Tweedleknecs. "And lift the curse you laid on the elves so that they must live underground forevermore."

"And who is going to make me do these things?" inquired the Pigwidgen icily.

There was a moment's silence. Then Tweedleknecs cleared his throat and said calmly, "Claus is."

The Pigwidgen sputtered. He fell to the floor. He rolled over and over squealing and holding his sides. He very nearly turned inside out with laughter. The other pygmies howled too. It seemed the roof of the castle would blow off in so much laughter.

At last the Pigwidgen got to his feet. He wiped the tears from his eyes and blew his nose with a wisp of a handkerchief. Then he said, "You think yourself more powerful than I?"

"More clever," murmured Claus. "It comes to the same thing."

The Pigwidgen threw back his head and blew a cloud of smoke from his mouth. He vanished in the cloud. An instant later the cloud was gone and the Pigwidgen appeared again. "Can you do that?" he demanded.

"I — I do not wish to disappear," stammered Claus. "I am here to make you lift the curse."

"Well," said the Pigwidgen indulgently. "Let us have a contest, if you win perhaps I shall lift the curse. The elf said you like roast pig. Very well. Let us see who can eat the most."

He took Claus into the kitchen and shut the door. There was a table before a roaring fire. On the table were 10 succulent roast pigs.

The Pigwidgen sat down and sank his teeth into a roast. In five minutes all that was left was bones and a tail. He ate a second roast and a third and a fourth and a fifth.

The Pigs the Pigwidgen ate had been secretly stripped of most of their meat and covered back over with skin. Nevertheless the meat that remained had so stuffed the tiny Pigwidgen that he now collapsed in a stupor behind an enormous pile of bones and five curly tails.

Grange Pickaway

WASHINGTON GRANGE

Washington Grange held its December meeting recently at the 4-H and Grange Building on the Fairgrounds.

Walton Spangler, substituting for the worthy master, was in the chair for the business portion of the meeting. An appeal for aid was answered.

A discussion was held concerning serving at the blood bank. It was turned over to the home economics committee for final action. It was announced dues were raised to $3.50 for the coming year.

Leroy May was reported ill. Christmas cards are to be sent to the shut-in members.

Russell Waidleich presented the program. A Christmas carol sing was held with all participating. Lydia DeLong gave household hints for Christmas. A piano solo, "The First Noel," was presented by Brena Bolender. A contest was held for the children.

Bonnie Bolender sang "Santa Claus Is Coming To Town." Karen Spangler played a piano solo.

The children held a Santa Claus drawing contest. Members told of some outstanding events in their lives at Christmas time.

A gift exchange was held, after which refreshments were served.

Claus sat before the five remaining pigs. He nibbled on the choice bits of each roast and licked his fingers and stared dreamily at the fire. At last he knew what he must do.

When the Pigwidgen woke he raised his bloated head. "Well, what have you eaten?" he demanded.

"All," said Claus. "But the bones? The tails? Where are they?"

"All eaten," replied Claus calmly.

And so they were for, while the Pigwidgen slept. Claus had thrown the unfinished pigs into the fire which had eaten them up skin, bones, tails and all.

Tomorrow: The Drinking Contest.

Sertoma Schedules Christmas Party

The Sertoma Club will hold its annual Christmas Dinner Wednesday evening at Wardell's Party home.

There will be a gift exchange between the members and their wives.

CINCINNATI (AP)—Eighty-year-old Judge Bert H. Long of the Ohio First District Court of Appeals will be a candidate for re-election to that bench. Presently in his 12th year on the bench, Judge Long took out nominating petitions in Hamilton County Monday for another six-year term.

Senate Group Anticrime Bottleneck

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee proved an impassable bottleneck for anticrime, antiriot and gun control legislation in the first session of the 90th Congress.

And there's evidence the same conflicts that caused the stalemate on all three measures may be equally difficult to breach in the next session beginning Jan. 15.

The Judiciary Committee, with Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., as chairman and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen the top-ranking minority member, is closely divided on all three issues.

Southern Democrats and conservative Republicans on the panel have tended to back the antiriot bill, which would make it a federal crime to incite a riot, while opposing the measure to prohibit interstate firearms sales.

Liberal and moderate committee members from both parties generally oppose the antiriot bill but strongly endorse the gun sales measure.

The liberals-conservatives bipartisan split also affects the anticrime bill.

Liberals have backed President Johnson's original proposal for providing federal grants to local law enforcement agencies for training and new equipment.

Conservatives have backed a Judiciary subcommittee's amendments to remove Supreme Court-imposed restrictions on the admissibility of confessions in criminal cases.

The subcommittee also broadened the bill to authorize wiretapping by law enforcement officers acting under court orders. Johnson has called for a ban on all wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping except in cases involving the national interest.

Both sides in the committee's wrangle over the anticrime bill were maneuvering cautiously when Congress went home last weekend.

From time to time reports cropped up that the administration might be willing to accept a wiretap provision if necessary to get its anticrime bill out of the committee, but sources said they knew of no foundation for them.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., a key supporter of limited authority for police wiretapping, also said he knew of nothing to indicate any weakening in the administration's opposition.

There was occasional talk during the last session that all three bills might be combined into some sort of package deal. But no compromise was reached and the outlook is not promising for the next session.

The House passed the antiriot bill last summer and the Senate committee completed hearings on it before Labor Day. But the efforts of Eastland and other backers to dislodge the bill proved unavailing in the face of the opposition of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and other liberals.

Wrangling over the gun control bill has gone on within the committee for years. Kennedy, with the backing of the administration, was among leaders in the fight for this but got nowhere against the conserva-

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: The pygmies carry Claus and Tweedleknecs off to meet their king, the Pigwidgen. The elf boasts that Claus is more powerful than the king.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN THE EATING CONTEST

The Pigwidgen was a mite, a dwarfing, a peewee, a runt of a pygmy.

He marched up to Claus. "What are you doing here?" he demanded in a high squeaky voice.

Claus told himself he could not possibly be afraid of a creature so small. "You have put a curse on all the children of the land," he said sharply. "I have come to ask you to lift it."

"You promised not to open the black purse that was left in your keeping," said the Pigwidgen. "I myself left the purse there to test you. The promise was broken and now the children sleep."

"It was no fault of the children," cried Claus. "You must wake them."

"Yes," blurted Patrick Tweedleknecs. "And lift the curse you laid on the elves so that they must live underground forevermore."

"And who is going to make me do these things?" inquired the Pigwidgen icily.

There was a moment's silence. Then Tweedleknecs cleared his throat and said calmly, "Claus is."

The Pigwidgen sputtered. He fell to the floor. He rolled over and over squealing and holding his sides. He very nearly turned inside out with laughter. The other pygmies howled too. It seemed the roof of the castle would blow off in so much laughter.

At last the Pigwidgen got to his feet. He wiped the tears from his eyes and blew his nose with a wisp of a handkerchief. Then he said, "You think yourself more powerful than I?"

"More clever," murmured Claus. "It comes to the same thing."

The Pigwidgen threw back his head and blew a cloud of smoke from his mouth. He vanished in the cloud. An instant later the cloud was gone and the Pigwidgen appeared again. "Can you do that?" he demanded.

"I do not wish to disappear," stammered Claus. "I am here to make you lift the curse."

"Well," said the Pigwidgen indulgently. "Let us have a contest, if you win perhaps I shall lift the curse. The elf said you like roast pig. Very well. Let us see who can eat the most."

He took Claus into the kitchen and shut the door. There was a table before a roaring fire. On the table were 10 succulent roast pigs.

The Pigwidgen sat down and sank his teeth into a roast. In five minutes all that was left was bones and a tail. He ate a second roast and a third and a fourth and a fifth.

The Pigs the Pigwidgen ate had been secretly stripped of most of their meat and covered back over with skin. Nevertheless the meat that remained had so stuffed the tiny Pigwidgen that he now collapsed in a stupor behind an enormous pile of bones and five curly tails.

Grange Pickaway

WASHINGTON GRANGE

Washington Grange held its December meeting recently at the 4-H and Grange Building on the Fairgrounds.

Walton Spangler, substituting for the worthy master, was in the chair for the business portion of the meeting. An appeal for aid was answered.

A discussion was held concerning serving at the blood bank. It was turned over to the home economics committee for final action. It was announced dues were raised to $3.50 for the coming year.

Leroy May was reported ill. Christmas cards are to be sent to the shut-in members.

Russell Waidleich presented the program. A Christmas carol sing was held with all participating. Lydia DeLong gave household hints for Christmas, a piano solo. "The First Noel," was presented by Brena Bolender. A contest was held for the children.

Bonnie Bolender sang "Santa Claus Is Coming To Town." Karen Spanger played a piano solo.

The children held a Santa Claus drawing contest. Members told of some outstanding events in their lives at Christmas time.

A gift exchange was held, after which refreshments were served.

Claus sat before the five remaining pigs. He nibbled on the choice bits of each roast and licked his fingers and stared dreamily at the fire. At last he knew what he must do.

When the Pigwidgen woke he raised his bloated head. "Well, what have you eaten?" he demanded.

"All," said Claus. "But the bones? The tails? Where are they?"

"All eaten," replied Claus calmly.

And so they were for, while the Pigwidgen slept, Claus had thrown the unfinished pigs into the fire which had eaten them up skin, bones, tails and all.

Tomorrow: The Drinking Contest.

Sertoma Schedules Christmas Party

The Sertoma Club will hold its annual Christmas Dinner Wednesday evening at Wardell's Party home.

There will be a gift exchange between the members and their wives.

Florida Tops Vanderbilt, 74-72

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Vanderbilt Commodores ran into a walk.

Vanderbilt, the nation's third-ranked college basketball team, appeared to have its sixth victory without a defeat after building a 44-30 halftime lead over Florida Monday night at Gainesville, Fla.

But then Florida's highly regarded sophomore, 6-foot-10 Neal Walk, held scoreless in the first half, scored seven straight points midway in the second half to get the Gators back in contention and they went on to score a 74-72 upset. Walk finished with 17 points as Florida built its record to 4-1.

Four other sophomores also paced their teams to victories. Mike Maloy scored 19 of his 23 points in the first half as sixth-ranked Davidson built up a 45-30 halftime lead and rolled to a 90-68 victory over Rice in a first-round game of the Charlotte Invitational. Temple beat Miami of Ohio 65-60 in the other first-round game.

Jim Collins scored all of his 13 points in a second-half burst to help unbeaten New Mexico State to its sixth victory, an 87-80 upset of Purdue at Lafayette, Ind.

Sparky Grober came off the bench and sank eight of 11 field goals—he scored 17 points—to spark Oklahoma State to a 67-65 victory over Washington at Stillwater, Okla. The winners scored on three free throws in the last 46 seconds, one coming on a technical foul for too many Washington timeouts.

Six-foot-11 Bob Lienhard poured in 29 points and led Georgia to a 94-80 victory over Furman at Athens, Ga.

All-American Elvin Hayes, a senior, struck a blow for upper classmen by scoring 35 points as second-ranked Houston breezed to a 103-65 home-court victory over Minnesota.

Tulsa, 6-1, handed Wyoming its first loss after five victories, 72-58 at Tulsa, Okla., and Indiana State, the No. 7 small college team upset first-ranked San Diego State 84-69 at Terre Haute, Ind.

In other games: Yale beat Virginia 79-72 for the championship and Virginia Tech drubbed New York University for third place in the Virginia-VPI Invitational. St. Bonaventure remained undefeated with a 88-73 victory over Auburn and Seattle topped Rutgers 75-63 in first round games of the Tampa, Fla., Invitational.

Iowa edged Texas at El Paso 59-53 in a non-conference game. Wake Forest scored an easy 108-79 home-court victory over William & Mary, visiting Northwestern took Missouri 79-68, Stanford lost at Kansas 72-54, Utah edged San Jose State 82-81 at home and Kentucky Wesleyan, the second-ranked small college team scored an easy 113-87 victory over Texas Wesleyan at home.

"I think you're going to see our style of play slow down some when we come back after Christmas," the Redmen's coach said Monday night after a 124-105 loss to Urbana.

Rio Grande is one school where high scoring isn't apt to break any records. "They're all out of reach, I think," Lanham admits.

The record books are dominated by the name of Clarence "Bevo" Francis, a kind of Paul Bunyan of college basketball history.

Bevo and Rio Grande were big news in the early 1950s. His scoring exploits included 113 points in one game and 1,954 points in one season when he averaged 50 points a game.

In 1953 Bevo, a 6-foot-9 farm-boy with a good shooting touch forced big-city sports editors to send writers into Southern Ohio to see whether he was a hoax.

The next season his fame carried the Redmen to New York's Madison Square Garden and other major arenas.

Then Bevo was dropped from school for academic shortcomings and Rio Grande basketball went back to relative obscurity.

"There have been mixed emotions about Bevo ever since I came here in 1960," Lanham said. "Some people still talk about him, and others would just as soon forget all about those days."

Lanham just hopes his young team will forget about the high-scoring tradition and play better basketball.

The team has been guilty of some sloppy defense and bad shots, and also has had a bad schedule with five games in the last nine nights, he said. The Redmen stand 5-6, averaging 104 points to 113 for their opponents.

There's no Bevo on the roster now, but 6-2 Tony Bass and 6-5 Bob Mabry, two sophomores from Dayton, have provided 72 points a game so far. Bass is averaging 39 points a game, Mabry 33.

Morris Acquired
BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles Monday acquired relief pitcher John Morris and an undisclosed amount of cash, completing the deal which sent reliever Dick Hall to the Philadelphia Phillies a year ago.

Daytonian Slain
DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Sheriff's detectives found John Long, 38, of Madison Township, west of Dayton in Montgomery County, shot to death in his home early Tuesday. They said they are holding a woman for questioning in the case.

In 1945 Alabama had the three top scorers in the Southeastern Conference — Fullback Fred Grant with 66 points, Hugh Morrow with 64 and Lowell Tew with 60.

Wilkins Chooses North Assistants
SHELBY, Ohio (AP)—Head Coach Bill Wilkins of Shelby, who will direct the North squad in the 23rd annual North-South All-Star High School Football game in Canton, Aug. 9, today named his assistants for the grid classic.

Wilkins chose Tom Campana of Kent Roosevelt; Barney Wachtel of North western (Wayne), and Jim Cordiak of Toledo Central Catholic.

Dover Coach Dick Haines, who will head the South stars, has yet to name his aides.

At the start of the football season Arizona's new coach Darrell Mudra said: "We can win 'em all." After four games the Wildcat record was 1-2-1.

Game Declared 'No Contest'
TIFFIN, Ohio (AP)—Until a decision is reached by the Ohio Conference's grievance committee, the basketball game between Otterbein and Heidelberg Saturday night has been declared "no contest."

The game was marred by fighting between players and fans.

McCoy Heads Du Pont Co.
WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—For Charles Brelford McCoy, the climb from cellophane production operator to head of the Du Pont Co., the nation's largest chemical firm, was a slow but steady journey of 35 years.

McCoy, born 58 years ago in Oakland, Calif., was named president and chief executive officer of the 165-year-old firm on Monday, succeeding Lamont du Pont Copeland, who becomes chairman of the board.

Allen, Shula Named NFL Co-Coaches
NEW YORK (AP)—Coach George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams thought it would be a shame for either team to lose in the showdown between his Rams and the Baltimore Colts.

One team, of course, lost, but neither of the coaches did.

Instead Allen and Don Shula of the Colts were named National Football League co-coaches of the year Monday in the voting by an Associated Press panel of football writers and broadcasters.

"I assume the vote was taken before Sunday's game," Shula said wryly, referring to the fact that the Colts lost both the game and the Coastal Division title this past Sunday.

Shula was right. The vote was taken before the game, and Allen and he each received 16 votes of the 46 cast.

Vince Lombardi of Green Bay got six votes, New York's Allie Sherman three, George Halas of Chicago and Blanton Collier of Cleveland two each and Tom Fears of New Orleans one.

Final Play Slated in Jr. High Loop
The final games in the Pickaway County Junior High Basketball League are scheduled Wednesday.

League leading Jackson, all-deadlock for the league title, hosts Walnut, loser of five games. Jackson is unbeaten with six wins.

Scioto, with a loss to Jackson the only blemish on its record, hosts Monroe, a four time loser in six starts.

Ashville, the number three team in the league, plays Pickaway in a contest at Ashville, and Salter Creek, fourth in the league, travels to Washington.

After tomorrow's action, League teams will begin prep for the annual junior high tournament slated Jan. 13, 20, and 27. The tournament drawing will be held Jan. 4, 1968.

Connolly Sold To the Angels
CLEVELAND (AP)—Pitcher Ed Connolly has been sold to the California Angels and his contract assigned from the Cleveland Indians' Portland farm to the Angels' Seattle affiliate, the Indians disclosed Monday night.

Connolly, a left-hander, was called to the Indians at the middle of the 1967 season and had a 2-1 record in 15 appearances, 11 of them in relief.

Chamberlain Back In Scoring Data
NEW YORK (AP)—Remember Wilt Chamberlain, the National Basketball Association's greatest scorer? Well, he's back.

The 76er ace, concentrating on rebounding and playmaking most of this season, exploded for 68 points against Chicago last Saturday night and 47 against Seattle Sunday to pass the 24,000-point career mark, with 24,150, and move from 16th to seventh in the current scoring race.

Rio Grande Still Haunted By Big Bevo

By ERIC PREWITT
RIO GRANDE, Ohio (AP)—

The basketball scores are still big at little Rio Grande College, but Coach Art Lanham isn't happy about it.

"I think you're going to see our style of play slow down some when we come back after Christmas," the Redmen's coach said Monday night after a 124-105 loss to Urbana.

Buckeyes To Face New Mexico State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio State's basketball players took time off for classroom tests last week, and return to the court tonight for another big test.

The Buckeyes are undefeated at 3-0, but their opponents have been weak — Davis of California, Florida State and South Dakota. Tonight they play host to undefeated New Mexico State, which was impressive in beating highly regarded Purdue 87-80 Monday night.

In another big game, Southern California is at Cincinnati. In Monday night's Ohio college basketball action, the out-of-state teams had the upper hand in interstate battles. Only Toledo and Wooster won.

The Rockets breezed to a 99-67 victory over Tennessee Tech in Toledo, hitting on 56 per cent of their field goal attempts. Steve Mix led the way with 28 points.

Wooster edged MacMurray of Illinois in a road game, 82-81. Miami got 22 points apiece from Fred Foster and Phil Snow but bowed to undefeated Temple 65-60 in the first round of the Charlotte, N.C., Tournament. Temple guard Drew Nolan stole the ball twice in the closing minutes to tie the score at 60-60 and then to put his team ahead for good.

In other games, Capital lost 90-74 to Tri-State of Indiana in the Spring Arbor, Mich., Tournament, and Malone lost 102-78 to host Spring Arbor in another first round game; Carnegie-Mellon nipped Case Tech 69-67; Wisconsin-Milwaukee beat Wittenberg 102-87, and Urbana beat Rio Grande 124-105 in a racehorse game despite 41 by Rio's Bob Mabry.

ABA Still Wide Open

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Houston Mavericks gave the Indiana Pacers a golden opportunity to tighten up the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division race, but the Denver Rockets took it right away again.

Houston knocked off Minnesota 97-91 Monday night and an Indiana victory would have tied the Pacers with Pittsburgh just one game away from the division-leading Muskies. But Denver knocked off Indiana 126-104.

In the only other ABA game Monday night, New Jersey beat Kentucky 110-101.

In the only National Basketball Association game Monday the Detroit Pistons rallied in the second half and trimmed the Seattle SuperSonics 140-122 at Tacoma, Wash.

Chamberlain Back In Scoring Data
NEW YORK (AP)—Remember Wilt Chamberlain, the National Basketball Association's greatest scorer? Well, he's back.

The 76er ace, concentrating on rebounding and playmaking most of this season, exploded for 68 points against Chicago last Saturday night and 47 against Seattle Sunday to pass the 24,000-point career mark, with 24,150, and move from 16th to seventh in the current scoring race.

Wilkins Chooses North Assistants
SHELBY, Ohio (AP)—Head Coach Bill Wilkins of Shelby, who will direct the North squad in the 23rd annual North-South All-Star High School Football game in Canton, Aug. 9, today named his assistants for the grid classic.

Wilkins chose Tom Campana of Kent Roosevelt; Barney Wachtel of North western (Wayne), and Jim Cordiak of Toledo Central Catholic.

Dover Coach Dick Haines, who will head the South stars, has yet to name his aides.

At the start of the football season Arizona's new coach Darrell Mudra said: "We can win 'em all." After four games the Wildcat record was 1-2-1.

Game Declared 'No Contest'
TIFFIN, Ohio (AP)—Until a decision is reached by the Ohio Conference's grievance committee, the basketball game between Otterbein and Heidelberg Saturday night has been declared "no contest."

The game was marred by fighting between players and fans.

McCoy Heads Du Pont Co.
WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—For Charles Brelford McCoy, the climb from cellophane production operator to head of the Du Pont Co., the nation's largest chemical firm, was a slow but steady journey of 35 years.

McCoy, born 58 years ago in Oakland, Calif., was named president and chief executive officer of the 165-year-old firm on Monday, succeeding Lamont du Pont Copeland, who becomes chairman of the board.

Allen, Shula Named NFL Co-Coaches

25 Ohio Schools In Perfect Marks

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It was a banner season for Upper Arlington who swept 10 straight victories to claim the Ohio Class AA high school football championship.

And Portsmouth Notre Dame, with a perfect 9-0 record, capped the small school ladders.

But, according to the Ohio Football News, a total of 25 scholastic powers turned in unblemished campaigns and 51 others lost only one game.

Meredith Set For Browns

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Don Meredith doesn't want to be hampered by that mask for his broken nose Sunday when he leads Dallas against Cleveland for the Eastern Conference championship of the National Football League.

This is it for Dandy Don, who has fought injuries all season and has been unable to reach his old effectiveness as a result.

"This is the Eastern Conference championship game and we have enough pride that we want to repeat," said Meredith. "A lot of us think we haven't played the football of which we are capable and we want to make up for that. Our team is going to be ready to give until it hurts."

That's what he was talking about probably when he said he would try to convince his doctor and the trainer that he can play without the mask.

Checkers Play U.S. Olympic Hockey Team
COLUMBUS — The United States National Hockey team will play the Columbus Checkers Friday at the Ohio Fairgrounds Coliseum.

The U. S. squad, coached by Murray Williamson is playing a 35 game domestic schedule leading to the Olympic tournament. Most of the games are on the road to give the squad the type of experience it will need in the Olympics at Grenoble, France, Feb. 5-16.

In their only other game against IHL competition this season, the Nationals played a 4-4 tie with the Des Moines Oak Leafs.

CHS Boosters Slate Meeting
Circleville Booster Club will meet 8 p.m. Wednesday in the senior high school cafeteria. Coach Chuck Hill will show movies of basketball games.

Final plans will be made for the teenage dance scheduled for Dec. 29 at the 4-H and Grange Building at the fairgrounds. Jerry Rasor will be the emcee. All members are urged to attend.

Allen, Shula Named NFL Co-Coaches

NEW YORK (AP)—Coach George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams thought it would be a shame for either team to lose in the showdown between his Rams and the Baltimore Colts.

One team, of course, lost, but neither of the coaches did.

Instead Allen and Don Shula of the Colts were named National Football League co-coaches of the year Monday in the voting by an Associated Press panel of football writers and broadcasters.

"I assume the vote was taken before Sunday's game," Shula said wryly, referring to the fact that the Colts lost both the game and the Coastal Division title this past Sunday.

Shula was right. The vote was taken before the game, and Allen and he each received 16 votes of the 46 cast.

Vince Lombardi of Green Bay got six votes, New York's Allie Sherman three, George Halas of Chicago and Blanton Collier of Cleveland two each and Tom Fears of New Orleans one.

UCLA Still Top Ratings; Indiana, Tarheels Advance

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
North Carolina and Indiana registered the most notable gains in The Associated Press' major college basketball poll today although powerful UCLA still dominates the voting.

The Tarheels knocked off two of last week's ranking teams, Kentucky and Princeton, and advanced three places to fourth. The set-backs dropped Princeton from the ratings altogether and sent Kentucky from the No. 4 to the No. 7 spot.

Indiana advanced from ninth to fifth after defeating Kansas State 89-83 and North Carolina State 101-97 in overtime.

Tennessee, now No. 9, and Bradley, No. 10, replaced Princeton and Louisville in the Top Ten.

UCLA received 30 first-place votes and two for second place for a total of 318 points in the balloting by a national panel of 32 sports writers and broadcasters. The Bruins, 3-0, were idle last week and meet Bradley in their next game Friday night.

The Houston Cougars held the No. 2 position. They defeated George Washington, Montana State and Brigham Young for a 7-0 mark. The Cougars accumulated 276 points, including 20 for two first-place votes. The balloting was on the usual basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

Frazier Defeats Marion Conner

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Frazier's 19th straight professional victory was an early knockout as expected, but he says the main reason was the willingness of outwitted and outgunned Marion Conner to make a fight of it.

"He could probably have stayed longer if he tried to move," the unbeaten heavy-weight contender said Monday night after putting Conner away at 1:40 of the third round. "But he came to work and to fight, just like I did."

Vanderbilt, 5-0, remained in third place after beating Davidson 81-79 in overtime and Duke 76-75. The Commodores lost to Florida 74-72 Monday night but the balloting was based on games through last Saturday.

Davidson climbed two spots to sixth despite its defeat by the Commodores.

Boston College, which lost to St. John's of New York 91-90, slipped from sixth to eighth. Tennessee is 3-0, including last week's victories over Illinois and Tulsa. Bradley increased its record to 7-0 by defeating Murray State, North Dakota and St. Louis.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses and total points on a 10-9-8-etc. basis:

1. UCLA (30) 318
2. Houston (2) 276
3. Vanderbilt 241
4. North Carolina 179
5. Indiana 143
6. Davidson 88
7. Kentucky 84
8. Boston College 64
9. Tennessee 58
10. Bradley 47

Aaron Chosen As Top Brave

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hank Aaron, who led the National League in home runs and total bases and batted .307, today was named the Braves' Most Valuable Player in 1967 by the Atlanta chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

"It gives me a thrill, no matter how many trophies I win," Aaron said of his selection.

U.S. Troops Leave Hilltop Near Dak To

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops have moved off the top of Hill 875, scene of an epic five-day battle last month, but are still patrolling actively in the general area in the central highlands, American officers said today.

A spokesman for the U.S. 4th Infantry Division said American infantrymen destroyed all of the North Vietnamese bunkers and other fortifications on top of the hill near Dak To, then moved off.

"The area is still under active patrol," said one U.S. senior officer in Saigon, "but we wouldn't keep anybody there on top of Hill 875. We don't go into a place like that and stay. No hill is that critical to hold forever. There are plenty of hills in that area."

The sprawling central highlands is dotted with hills in the Dak To area.

The 21-day battle of Dak To, the costliest of the Vietnam war for both sides, included the bloody fighting for Hill 875. American paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade finally took the hill on Thanksgiving Day after nearly 150 Americans were killed and almost 300 wounded.

The main elements of the three North Vietnamese regiments that fought the Americans at Dak To are believed to have pulled back across the Cambodian and Laotian borders to regroup after suffering severe losses. Only minor skirmishes with small groups of Communist soldiers have been reported in recent days.

U.S. Headquarters reported that 1,836 North Vietnamese troops were killed by American and South Vietnamese forces in the fighting around Dak To. Total U.S. losses for the same period were 280 killed and 1,037 wounded, the U.S. Command said.

Billie Jean King Tops in Tennis

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., the U.S. and Wimbledon champion, retained her No. 1 United States Lawn Tennis Association ranking.

Mrs. King also won the doubles and mixed-doubles competition at Wimbledon, giving an easy job to the USLTA's women's ranking committee, which announced its recommended ratings Monday.

Woman Honored

TORONTO (AP) — Nancy Greene, winner of the World Cup Alpine skiing title, Monday was named Canada's outstanding women athlete for 1967.

Green Bay Worried by Poor Play

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Sports Writer
There's cause for concern in Green Bay. Christmas is six days away and there's still no snow on the ground and the beloved Packers have problems.

The defending professional football champions meet the Los Angeles Rams in Milwaukee Saturday for the National Football League's Western Conference title.

Normally that would be no cause for alarm on the part of Packer fans, but 1967 has not been a normal Packer season. The regular schedule came to an end Sunday as the Packers lost 24-17 to the lightly held Pittsburgh Steelers.

"They looked like a high school team out there," complained a white-haired lady in a coffee shop. In Green Bay, even white-haired ladies are sometimes Monday morning quarterbacks.

While the Packers were fumbling away the Steeler game, the Rams were humbling previously unbeaten Baltimore 34-10 for their second big victory in two games. The first was over the Packers, 27-24.

32 sports writers and broadcasters. The Bruins, 3-0, were idle last week and meet Bradley in their next game Friday night.
The Houston Cougars held the No. 2 position. They defeated George Washington, Montana State and Brigham Young for a 7-0 mark. The Cougars accumulated 276 points, including 20 for two first-place votes. The balloting was on the usual basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

Frazier Defeats Marion Conner

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Frazier's 19th straight professional victory was an early knockout as expected, but he says the main reason was the willingness of outweight and outgunned Marion Conner to make a fight of it.
"He could probably have stayed longer if he tried to move," the unbeaten heavyweight contender said Monday night after putting Conner away at 1:40 of the third round. "But he came to work and to fight, just like I did."

Vanderbilt, 5-0, remained in third place after beating Davidson 81-79 in overtime and Duke 76-75. The Commodores lost to Florida 74-72 Monday night but the balloting was based on games through last Saturday.

Davidson climbed two spots to sixth despite its defeat by the Commodores.

Boston College, which lost to St. John's of New York 91-90, slipped from sixth to eighth. Tennessee is 3-0, including last week's victories over Illinois and Tulsa. Bradley increased its record to 7-0 by defeating Murray State, North Dakota and St. Louis.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses and total points on a 10-9-8-etc. basis:

1. UCLA (30) 318
2. Houston (2) 276
3. Vanderbilt 241
4. North Carolina 179
5. Indiana 143
6. Davidson 88
7. Kentucky 84
8. Boston College 64
9. Tennessee 58
10. Bradley 47

Aaron Chosen As Top Brave

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hank Aaron, who led the National League in home runs and total bases and batted .307, today was named the Braves' Most Valuable Player in 1967 by the Atlanta chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.
"It gives me a thrill, no matter how many trophies I win," Aaron said of his selection.

U.S. Troops Leave Hilltop Near Dak To

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops have moved off the top of Hill 875, scene of an epic five-day battle last month, but are still patrolling actively in the general area in the central highlands, American officers said today.

A spokesman for the U.S. 4th Infantry Division said American infantrymen destroyed all of the North Vietnamese bunkers and other fortifications on top of the hill near Dak To, then moved off.

"The area is still under active patrol," said one U.S. senior officer in Saigon. "but we wouldn't keep anybody there on top of Hill 875. We don't go into a place like that and stay. No hill is that critical to hold forever. There are plenty of hills in that area."

The sprawling central highlands is dotted with hills in the Dak To area.

The 21-day battle of Dak To, the costliest of the Vietnam war for both sides, included the bloody fighting for Hill 875. American paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne Brigade finally took the hill on Thanksgiving Day after nearly 150 Americans were killed and almost 300 wounded.

The main elements of the three North Vietnamese regiments that fought the Americans at Dak To are believed to have pulled back across the Cambodian and Laotian borders to regroup after suffering severe losses. Only minor skirmishes with small groups of Communist soldiers have been reported in recent days.

U.S. Headquarters reported that 1,836 North Vietnamese troops were killed by American and South Vietnamese forces in the fighting around Dak To. Total U.S. losses for the same period were 280 killed and 1,037 wounded, the U.S. Command said.

Billie Jean King Tops in Tennis

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., the U.S. and Wimbledon champion, retained her No. 1 United States Lawn Tennis Association ranking.

Mrs. King also won the doubles and mixed-doubles competition at Wimbledon, giving an easy job to the USLTA's women's ranking committee, which announced its recommended ratings Monday.

Green Bay Worried by Poor Play

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Sports Writer
There's cause for concern in Green Bay. Christmas is six days away and there's still no snow on the ground and the beloved Packers have problems.
The defending professional football champions meet the Los Angeles Rams in Milwaukee Saturday for the National Football League's Western Conference title.
Normally that would be no cause for alarm on the part of Packer fans, but 1967 has not been a normal Packer season. The regular schedule came to an end Sunday as the Packers lost 24-17 to the lightly held Pittsburgh Steelers.
"They looked like a high school team out there," complained a white-haired lady in a coffee shop. In Green Bay, even white-haired ladies are sometimes Monday morning quarterbacks.
While the Packers were fumbling away the Steeler game, the Rams were humbling previously unbeaten Baltimore 34-10 for their second big victory in two games. The first was over the Packers, 27-24.

Libassi Happy with Integration Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Changes forced by Southern congressmen in the government's school desegregation policies actually will strengthen the federal integration effort, says the official in charge.

The whole civil rights compliance procedure will become "more orderly, more disciplined and will provide greater certainty for the school districts involved," said Peter Libassi, director of the Office of Civil Rights of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Libassi said in a Monday interview: "Now, when we start a case, we'll have to conclude it—we'll avoid negotiations that go on indefinitely."

The new policies, agreed to by HEW Secretary John W. Gardner, provide the department will not—with two exceptions—cut off federal funds to any school district between Sept. 1 and June 1 of the school year for failure to comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., on receiving the Gardner assurance, dropped his Southern-backed proposed amendment to the federal aid to education bill. His proposal would have barred the government from cutting off or deferring federal funds during a school year.

Gardner's agreement stipulated a school district is told in writing by March 1 before the year of the cutoff that it probably is not in compliance.

A district is given notice of opportunity for a hearing on alleged noncompliance by Sept. 1 in the school year of the cutoff.

The procedures now affect mainly Southern school districts. But they will take on meaning in the North under the new effort HEW will begin early next year to check for violations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today decreed safeguards for private telephone conversations from government eavesdropping.

Specifically excluding national security cases, the court said in a 7-1 opinion that unless electronic surveillance is carried out by officials in a limited, judicially approved way it violates the individual's rights under the 4th Amendment.

Significantly, Justice Potter Stewart said in the decision, such is the case whether or not the officials physically trespass.

With the ruling, the high court overturned the conviction of Charles Kat, a Los Angeles handicapper, whose conversations from two public telephone booths were recorded by federal agents.

The decision was important in two other regards.

In the first place, it said the protection of a person's general right to privacy, which Stewart defined as "his right to be let alone by other people," is, like the protection of a citizen's property and his life, left largely to the law of individual states.

Secondly, it said the 4th Amendment's protection pertains to the person and not a given place or area.

Explaining, Stewart wrote: "What a person knowingly exposes to the public, even in his own home or office is not a subject of 4th Amendment protection."

"But what he seeks to preserve as private, even in an area accessible to the public, may be constitutionally protected."

Rule Slaying Accidental

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A ruling of accidental death was made by Mahoning County Coroner David A. Belinky Monday in the fatal shooting of James K. Pruett, 27, Youngstown.

Pruett, whose jail sentence for robbery was delayed so he could spend Christmas with his family, was shot accidentally Dec. 9 by his father-in-law Edward C. Nelson, 51, during a struggle for a pistol Nelson had taken from a bedroom in the Nelson home here, the coroner ruled.

of the Civil Rights Act in the largely segregated big-city Northern school systems.

Southern congressmen often have sought to reduce the government's authority in its program to end dual school systems for whites and Negroes in the South.

Administration officials feared Russell's amendment to the aid to education bill would have seriously weakened the compliance program.

But they say the new procedures will limit only slightly the aid.

False Arrest Suit Is Filed

CLEVELAND (AP)—William Wood, Euclid, and his wife, Barbara, seek $525,000 in compensatory and punitive damages in a false arrest suit filed in common pleas court Monday.

The suit claims Wood and his wife were entertaining friends with recorded Christmas carols on Dec. 18, 1966, when two policemen came to their apartment and demanded that Wood turn down the record player.

Before he could call the apartment management, the policemen arrested Wood and took him away in handcuffs, the suit charges.

Named defendants in the suit are Cletrac Properties, Inc., of Parma Heights, and Hilltop Management Co. of Lyndhurst.

department's flexibility, and Libassi said: "I'm not sure it means much."

County Engineer Employees To Receive Group Insurance

Pickaway County Commissioners approved a resolution Monday which authorizes county engineer Henry McCrady to pay group hospitalization insurance from the auto license and gas tax fund for all engineering department employees.

Commissioners were told by County Prosecutor Robert Huffer the payment of group insurance from the auto license and gas tax fund was made possible through recent legislation. He noted that employees would receive a greater benefit from the hospitalization than through an increase in salary since the payment of insurance would not increase income tax.

In other action yesterday, Commissioners Wayne Hines, Charles Morris and Lloyd Melvin rejected a bid of J. Boyd Stout Co. to install six windows on the third floor of the jail. The bid was in the amount of $3,956.

Commissioners explained the bid was not properly submitted in that it did not contain a statement of wage scales to be paid. They indicated they would readvertise for bids after the first of the year.

Two streets in the Clark Lakes Subdivision were approved by commissioners and turned over to Darby Twp. Trustees.

Drug Pricing Is Defended

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of economists defended the drug industry today against congressional complaints about prescription pricing practices.

Dr. Simon N. Whitney of New York University said research leading to new drug discoveries would be endangered "if we strike out so-called 'excess profits'."

Whitney and three other economists representing the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association spoke in testimony prepared for the Senate monopoly subcommittee.

Its chairman, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has been critical of drug-pricing practices.

Spellman Leaves All to Successor

NEW YORK (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman willed his entire estate, estimated in the neighborhood of $30,000, to his successor as archbishop of New York, for the benefit of the archdiocese.

The will dated April 30, 1960, was filed for probate Tuesday in Manhattan Surrogate's Court. Cardinal Spellman died Dec. 2 at the age of 78 of a stroke. His successor is yet to be appointed.

The petition for probate stated that the cardinal's estate amounted to not more than $30,000, including a legacy which the cardinal intended to transfer to the archdiocese, but which he had not yet received when he died.

Gold Buying Rush Slackens

LONDON (AP) — Demand for gold suddenly dropped back almost to normal on the London gold market today, indicating the gold rush in Europe may be ending.
